Remember the days long ago when you played king of the castle? Do you remember what your goal was? It was to be the best, above the rest, the King, the Leader. When you looked up that hill, you wanted to be up there, looking down, feeling proud and strong. You wanted to be On Top. Well, here you are, and you must admit it feels great! This is the place, this is the time, these are the people: the best. You've made it, you're looking down on the rest. You are a fundamental part of the best school anywhere, the best crowd, the hottest trends, the fastest cars and the latest music; you're looking down over the riverbank, the city, and every school but the one you belong to. You're in the clouds now. You are a part of championship teams, prized academics, great bands, hot clubs, Leaders, Movers, Shakers. Here you are in a school full of bright, talented, spirited people who are ready to rock the world. You have moved this school, this whole Generation AND Yourself to the place you truly belong. The Top. And you are one of those people; take a look at yourself, you're the best there is and you know it. You are part of a tradition, The McNally Tradition, the one YOU are making. This is McNally, and we're number one in the arts, The Art Of Being ON TOP...

REMEMBER

Nov. 1988: The dollar was $0.83 U.S.
 1988/89: A 500 ml of Coke was $0.99 .
 1988/89: A chocolate bar was $0.65 .
 1988/89: Diana and Charles were still married.
 1988/89: Bus fare was $1.00/$0.60 if you were short.
 1988/89: Some big issues were freetrade, AIDS, drinking and driving, and drugs.

GRADUATING CLASS

Stop, look, listen. What do you see what do you hear? Can you feel anything? Is your heart beating, is your mind spinning? Are you dizzy or confused? Do you know who you are, where you are?

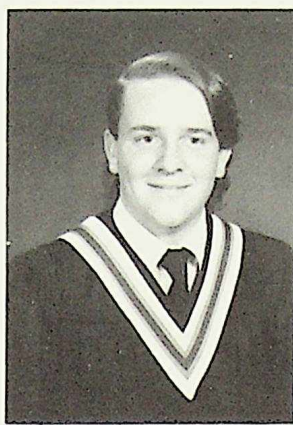

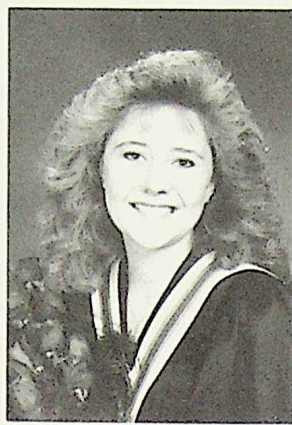

This is a world packed with problems, packed with joy. A world full of laughter, tears, screams, parties, games and dreams. It is a world of memories, a world where one strives to bring back the past, to keep all the good times that have passed fresh in his mind. Yet another year has rushed by, a year of trends, new clothes, new faces, new teachers, new livelihood. Those are things you remember, cherish and hold on to. It was another year of hot days and the odd blizzard, another year of packed buses or packed cars, crowds and junkfood, make-up and cover-up, acne and Clearasil. There were elections, debates, and pep rallies. It was enough to keep all of us going. It was another year of memories. Memories of good friends and good times, of laughter and sunshine, walks and talks, and endless games. Those very memories that are right now clear in your mind, but with the pass of time will fade, and yet become even more cherished. It always seems that no matter how great those memories are, the ones drifting through your mind right now, even better ones are waiting to be made. Waiting for you just around life's next corner. Memories are something to hope for, something to cherish. They make you realize every year is better, and see every year you do improve. Take a moment, look back, and you will see. You will see that this last year has been your best. Weren't the days brighter, the parties better, your friends cooler, and weren't you all that much closer to being a person you have always dreamed of being? Look closely and you'll see it written in the memories of the last year. This was the best year of your life. Maybe tomorrow, you'll see today the same way.

12 years here in a rage. 11 without love. This last year was filled with much. It started with pain, followed closely by burnout. Then it happened. From an introduction by a former friend a beautiful relationship blossomed. Thank you MF this was the only good thing you ever did for me. The year was so much more pleasant with my new love. I love you Rishan!!!

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS

Our School has a reputation for being one of the top schools in Edmonton. I am often asked why McNally is able to perpetuate such a reputation and my answer is always the same, "We have the best students and an excellent teaching staff."

By looking back at this year and at others, we can see the outward manifestations of being at the top — the city Championships, the scholarships won by the students, the numbers of students in post-secondary education. What we cannot see are the internal elements that create those manifestations. Each individual striving to do his best with pride, commitment, and excellence; each individual sharing responsibility for and with his peers, are the elements that, when combined, make McNally a "top" school.

Our motto "Nihil Sed Optimum" applies to each of us and to all of us. As long as we strive to do our very best individually and collectively we shall continue to live up to the standards set by our traditions.

SLAVE DAYS

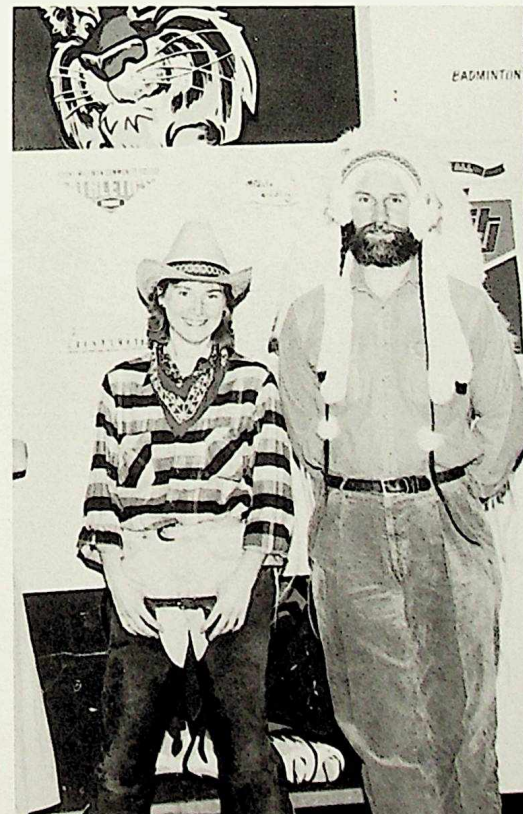

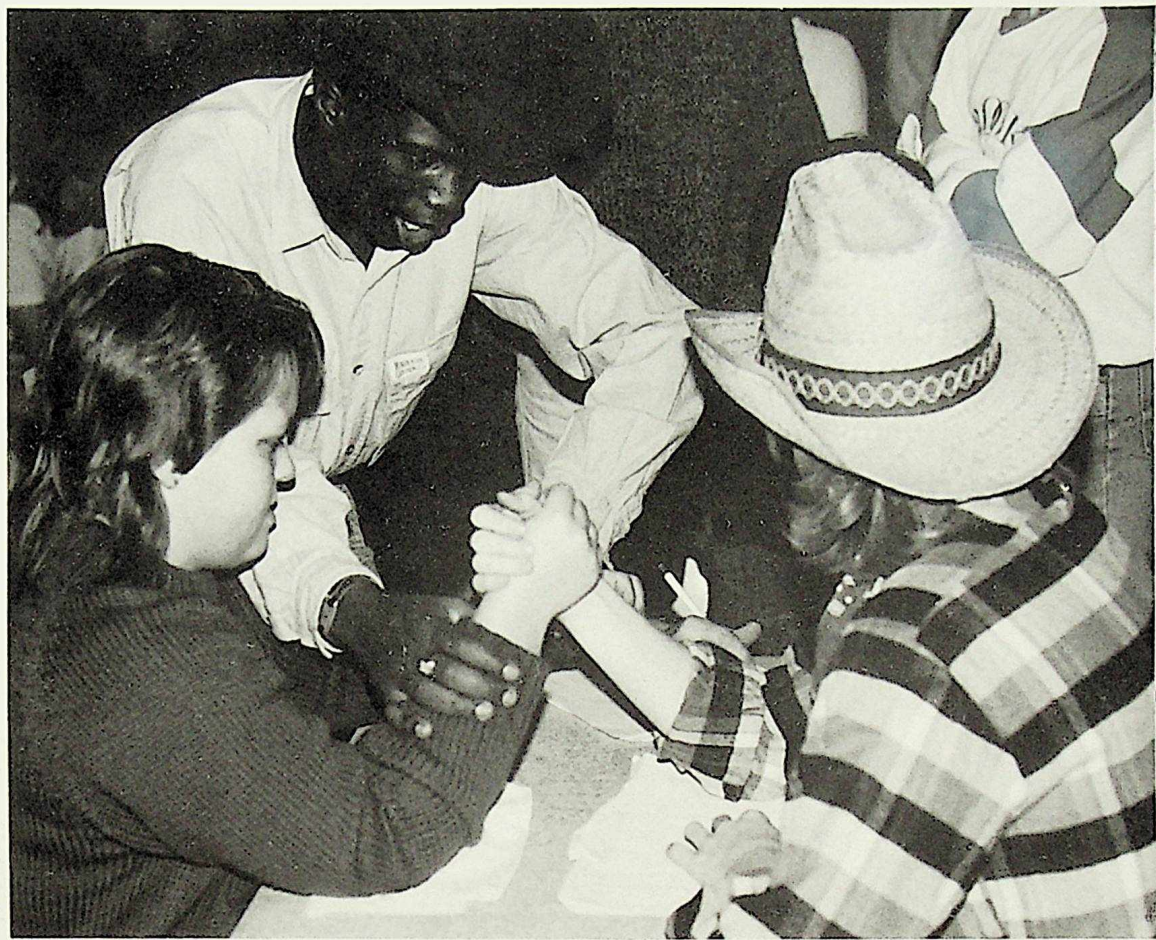

Need someone to carry your textbooks? Do your homework? Or just to humiliate publicity? The Annual McNally Slave Days Auction sells students to raise money for local charities. These slaves sure look like they're having a great time in it too (even if they are making a fool out of themselves).

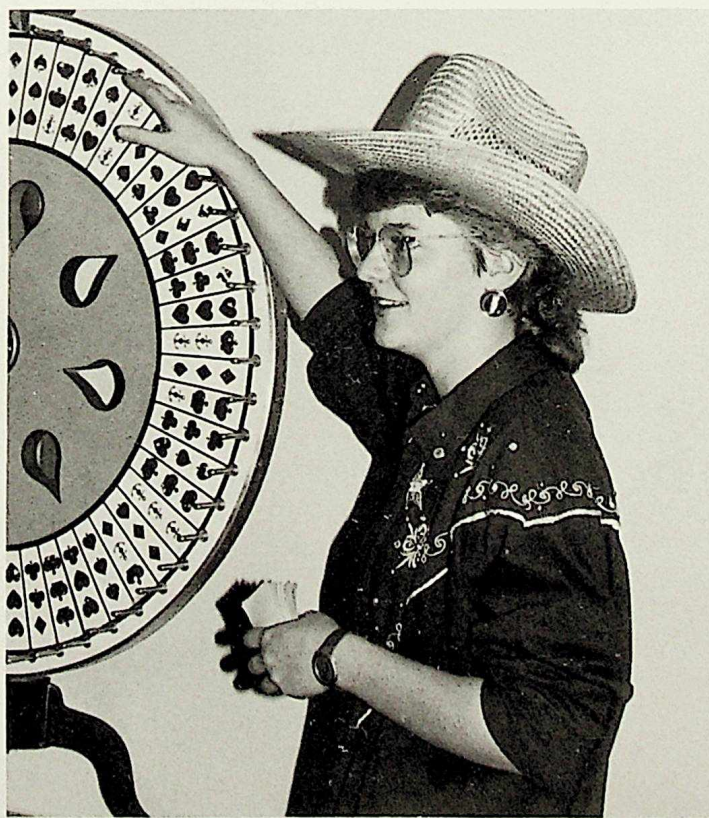

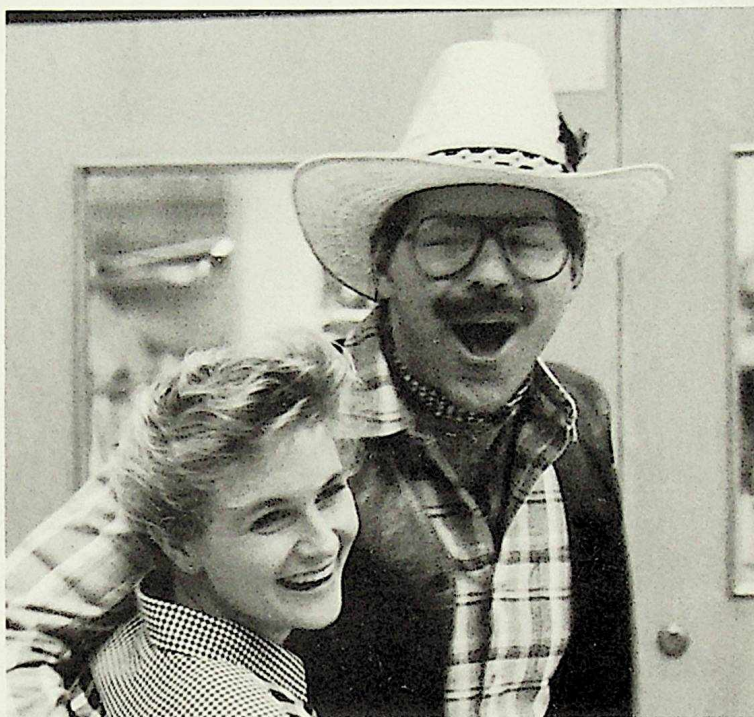

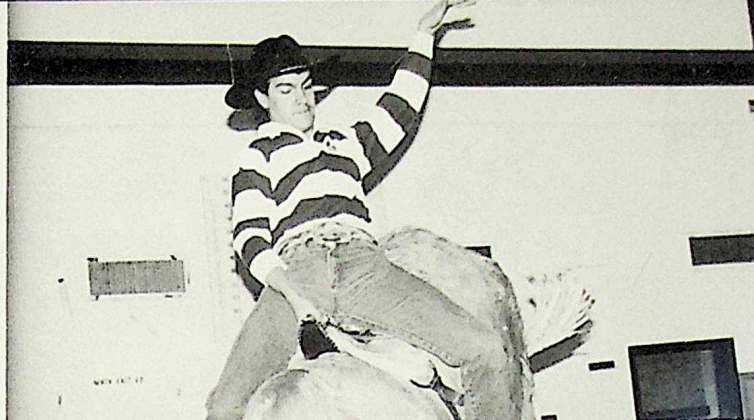

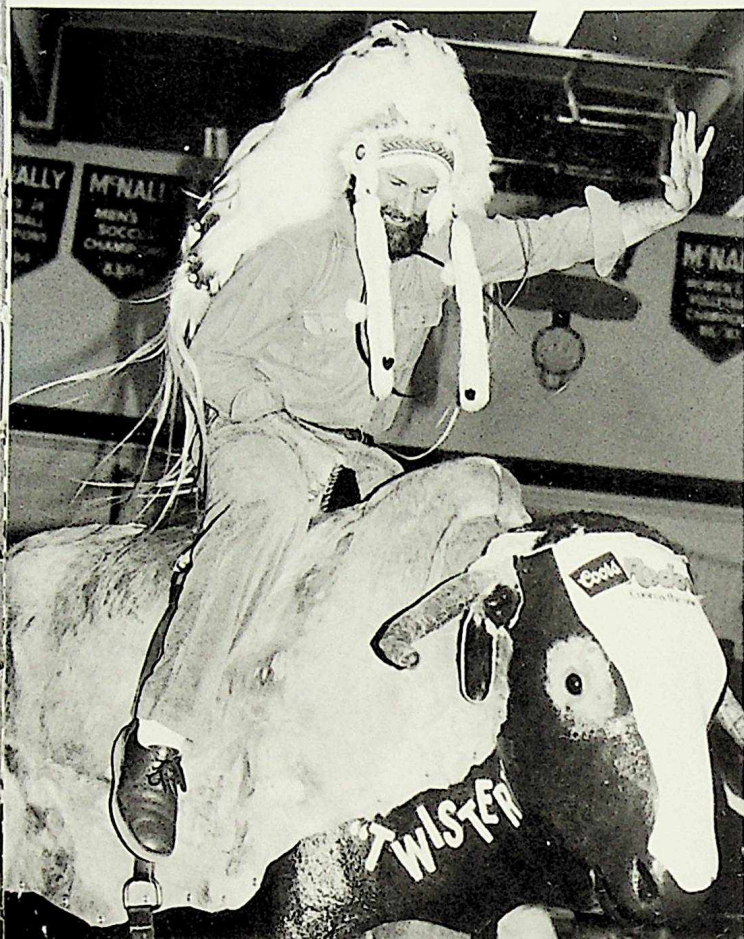

HALLOWEEN

What weird creatures are these? Oh wow! These are students dressed up for Halloween at good 'ol haunted McNally High where the teachers don't have to dress up to look scary. A varied assortment of ghouls, goblins, beer cans, condoms, Big Bird and a little chicken (who is by the way Wanda Nahayowski). I wonder what next Halloween will be like. Get out there and get into the spirit and dress up for Halloween like these goofs did.

And they rocked a nation, tore up a continent, and screamed their allusive words and into the ears, minds, and souls of tens of millions who had come to adore them and all they stood for : hope, honesty, and justice. They are U2. They play with power, emotion, and they have a driving rhythm of words that never lets up, but only extends alongside those crushing drum beats and pounding strings which smash you and shred you up until you only know the words and forget the world they enlighten you to. They are the success of our times, but do not play the role. Bombarded by endless wealth, they Rattled and Hummed their way to an album that proved they had lost none of their magic, and perhaps had grown. They are true to their fans, their desires and themselves. U2 is not a group of men who wear masks. We see them and adore them as they truly are, men who desire to change the wrong, and make it right. When Bono speaks, we listen, and we hear what he says, and we believe him and want to make the world right too. And that is what music should be. That is U2.

Grade eleven is an experience. Its a state of mind. After your first year of high school, you're sure that you've got the system figured out. Maybe others haven't caught on yet, but you know all that could be called "insider information." But more than that, you are the ones that are expected to bring all the new students to the point of understanding all that goes on in the school. You finally know where your classes are, you know how much school work you can do along with sports, clubs, and friends. You know that it's always rewarding to go to football games, and that no matter how hard you try, you can't escape the need to do your homework.

Parents want good grades. It's a fact of life. What they want them for is of no importance to the average Joe student. What is important is getting those great marks so that Ma and Pa stay off your case. So, we here at the Yearbook department have developed the McMally Four Point System For Getting Good Grades. It includes (what else?) 4 important steps to get good report cards without the hassle of having to do your homework. Sound too good to be true? Then keep reading. I Step one: First, you have to make sure you've got the right teacher. Be sure to pick the easiest teacher in each subject at registration. You have only yourself to blame if you pick the department head. Step two: Once you have established the appropriate teacher, lean on them. Suck up to them using your vast reservoirs of student charm. Compliment them even if their idea of fashion coordination is to insure that their toupematches their tie pin. Above all, make them like you. Step three: If you have an older brother or sister, than keep their old notes and tests. This stuff is incredibly valuable. A great money making scheme is to sell their notes to your friends, and their friends, and so on, and so on . . . You can also make friends with older students who are taking the courses you have to take next year. Step four: The brains! Use THEIR grey stuff! Stop wasting time with yours. Bribe 'em, threaten 'em . . . do whatever you have to do. And make sure that (even though this is humiliating) you sit in the front of the class right by them so that come test time, you can casually lean 'over and get the answer to number five. There you have it. Read this, memorize it, and make sure you know what it means. This way you don't have to read, memorize or know what the school work means. And your weekends will be free! If you are not satisfied with this offer, after a trial period of 90 days, just simply write to us and tell us why it didn't work. Or just phone us at: EZ MARKS (295-1647) Good Luck!

Memories,

Cherish the memories,

Of crowded halls with all your friends,

Thinking the day would never end,

Cramming for tests before your class,

Going to the dance with your first romance,

Football games out in the cold,

Wishing it was you that he would hold,

The basketball and volleyball teams,

Sharing your secrets and your dreams,

Eating lunch in the cafeteria,

Crowding in the bathroom to glance in the mirror,

In the locker room after the game,

Knowing that play earned you some fame,

All of the math, social and chemistry tests,

Trying your hardest to do your best,

Partying with your friends weekend nights,

Making up with your boyfriend after a fight,

The nervousness of your first day,

Trying to find your class not knowing the way,

Then grade eleven, only one more year to go,

It seems like forever, but it's not you know,

Then the relief after your last grade twelve exam,

Thank God last night someone gave you a hand,

Then graduation after all these years,

And the end of school is finally here,

To be independant and do as your please,

But you'll always look back on your high school memories,

Sweet memories,

Cherish your memories.

NEW ROOTS LIVE ON

The wind sweeps the ground

Like a wish-broom on the floor

Carrying away the sorrow, the fear,

The death of winter.

Cool raindrops fall,

upon the window,

Streaking like tears down the ice covered face that stares from there.

Peeking through the snow-pillows,

The grass, still tender and young, thrusts

Its points towards the sun.

Sighing the Snow Queen releases

Her rule to her husband for a

Well-earned rest

Trees, growing taller, almost visibly,

Summer to claim his prize

And cause the young bloom to bear fruit

Once born, the fruit shrivels,

Dying and falling to the ground, planting

New roots where before none

Existed. New roots that will live on for cycles yet to come

Stephanie Maitson

LOOK!

Look! See there, the crocus flowers

Pushing through the crusted snow

And grasping in the crisp, cool air

Such beautiful flowers

The first of Spring

They dot flat expanse of white prairie

With colorful buds and then

Finally, it is time and the buds and bloo

Creating a carpet of white and yellow

More beautiful than the finest Oriental

DRIVING DEAD

"I know my limit."

As everyone does say.

Then you walk out with

Keys in one hand and beer in belly.

The car lock is not a target easily found by the key,

and you probably will not remember much of this night.

"I'm not as think as you drunk I am",

You think to yourself and chuckle you fool.

Someone keeps moving the road,

As the world seems to fly by.

Swerving to miss the flying pig

You hit the walking tree instead.

Tree meets metal,

and metal meets metal.

Your bright future is now over because you banged your head.

The cold coffin,

and the 6 foot deep hole.

These things are your new home for the rest of eternity.

The silliest things people do.

Driving dead, trees jumping out and hitting cars.

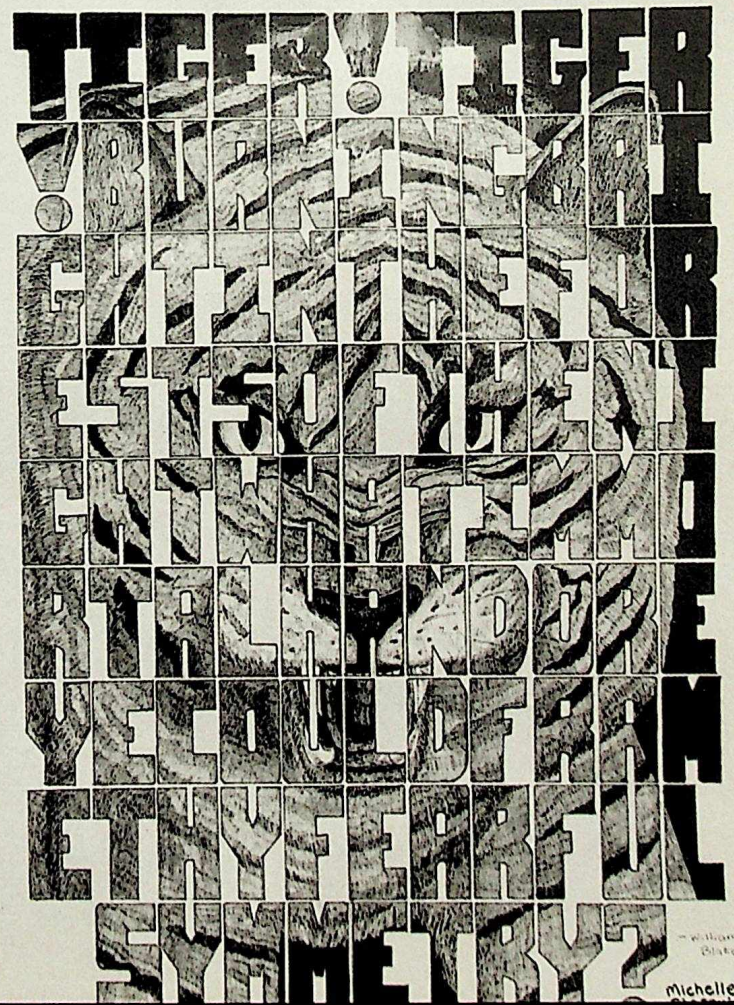

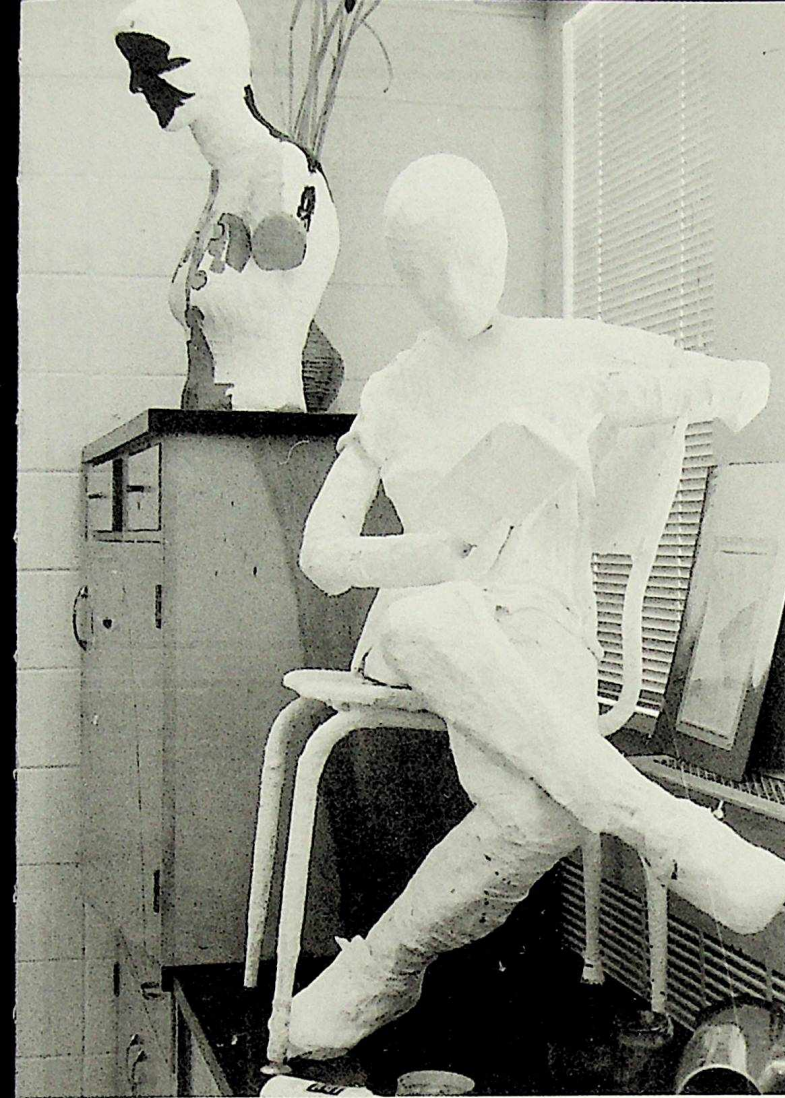

Pack your bags, you're moving.

AN ARTIST: ON THE WAY TO THE TOP

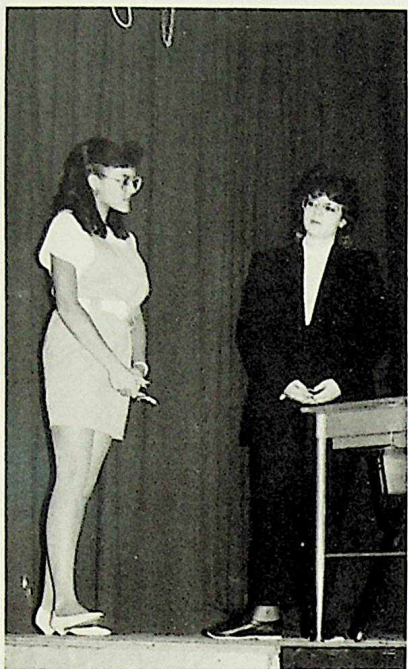

The way that the colors blend together in a painting, outlining just what you are feeling is one of the most satisfying experiences an artist, or artist-to-be, can have. The ability to express your feelings on paper is one of the greatest gifts man possesses. The gift is not the same in every person, some people draw cartoons, others paint vivid pictures and still others can work wonders with a piece of charcoal and a piece of white paper. But still the ability, or the appreciation of another's ability, is present in every one of us, we just need a little encouragement to bring it out. Completing a drawing, painting or sculpture and having it convey all the emotion and motivation behind it is one of the most rewarding experiences of life.

MUSIC

FROM AN ACTORS PERSPECTIVE

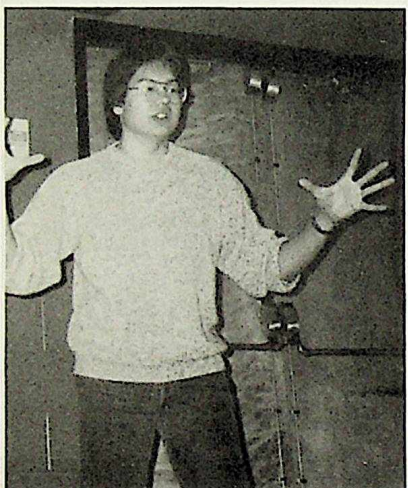

Opening night.....Hours of rehearsal, learning lines, practicing and building sets finally comes down to this. People are rushing around, trying to cover up for frazzled nerves. I look for a quiet spot to relax, focus and concentrate on the play ahead. I can hear the crew out front making sure the set is okay.

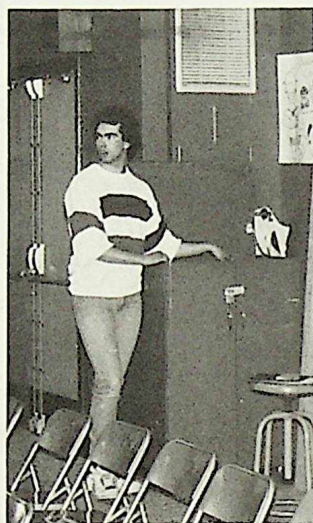

Someone taps me on the shoulder and tells me it's time to get ready. Slowly I change into my dusty costume, and put on my heavy stage make-up. A few hugs for goodluck, and the occasional "Break a leg" and we are silent, waiting for our cues.

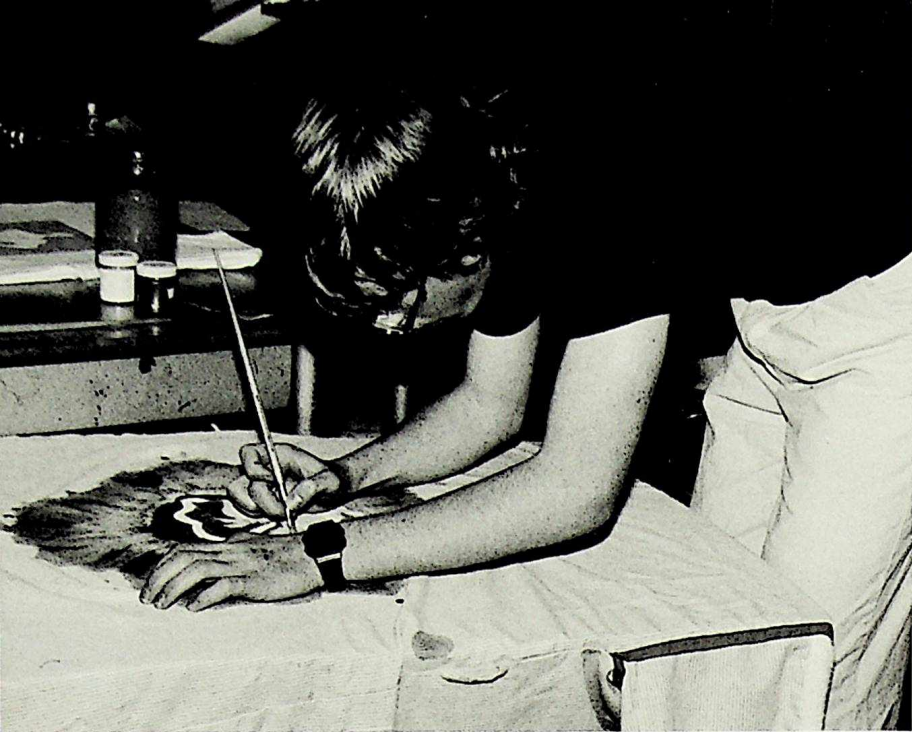

Finally I get my cue. I move on stage, sing the lines as if in a dream. Suddenly I forget the audience out there and become the character I'm playing.

The play is over. It went so fast. People are applauding. We all take our final bows, and run off stage—elated.

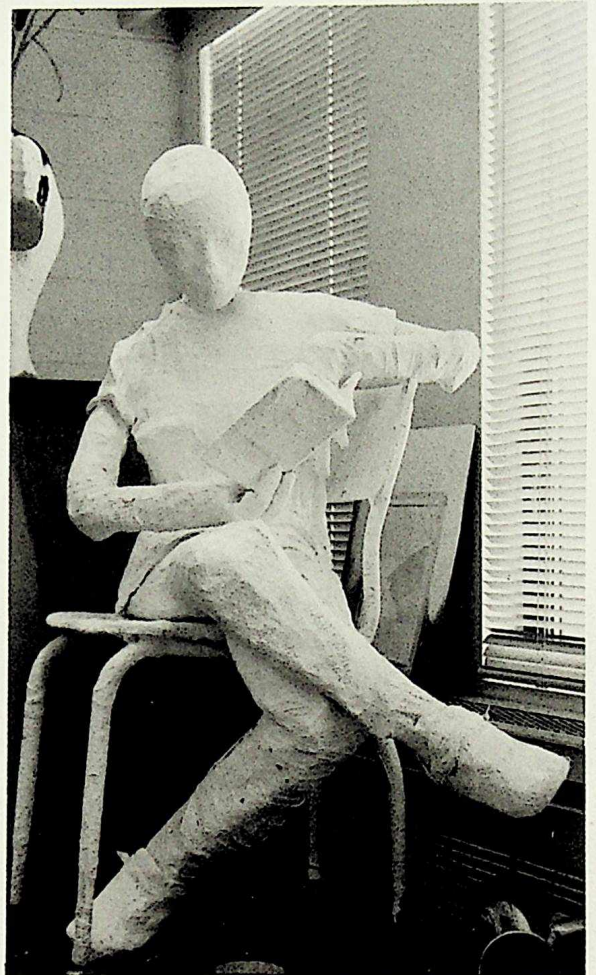

In the dressing room I see a rose with my name on it. The perfect way to end an opening night. Now I know what its like to be on top.....

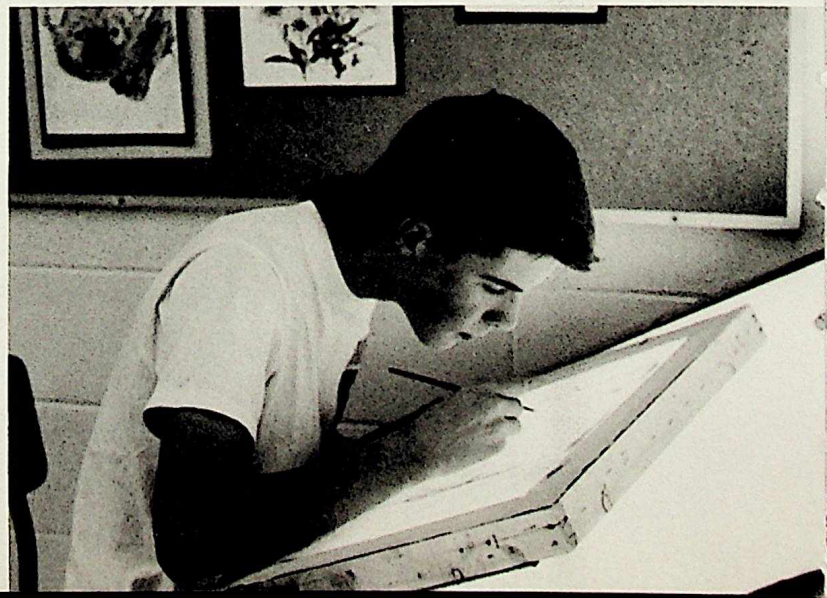

If she blows that thing in my ear again I'll scream!

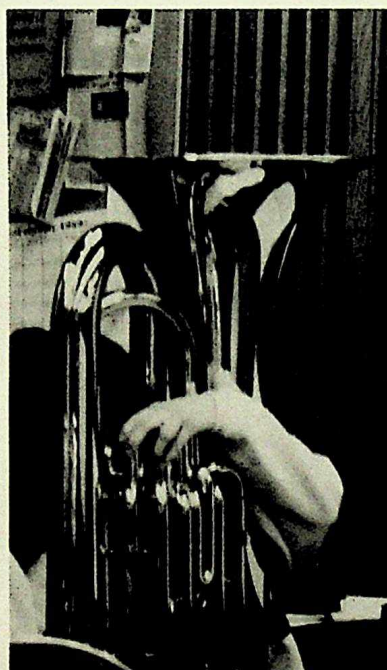

Excuse me, do you have the time?

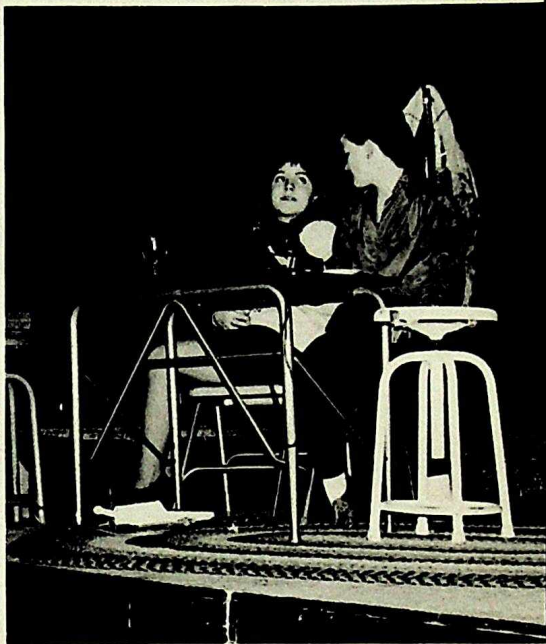

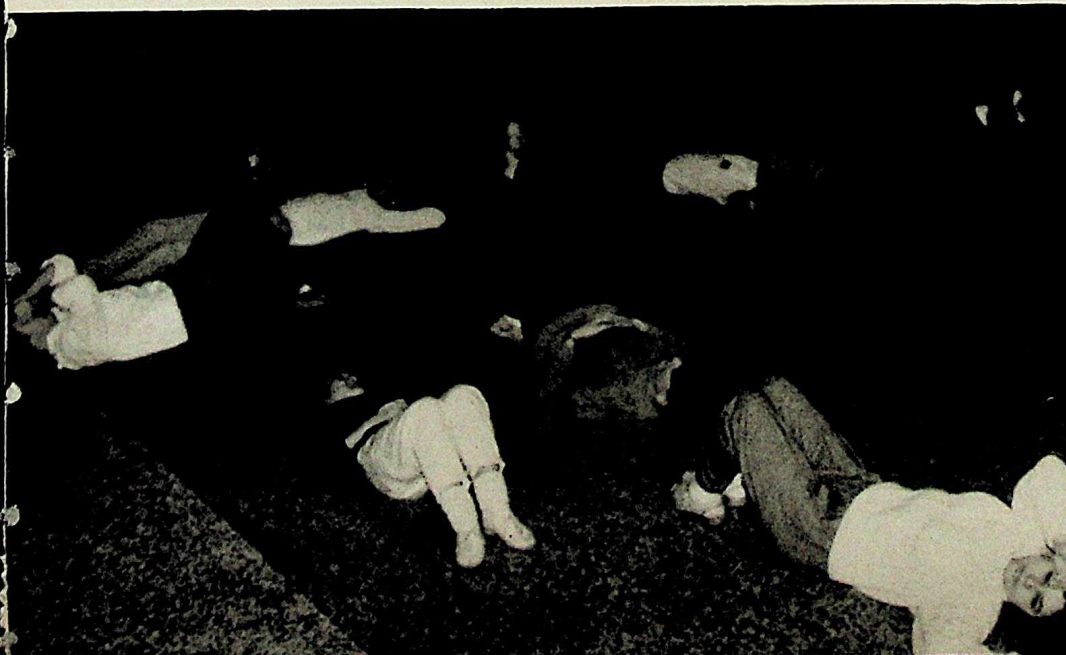

Ready — Set — Beat it!

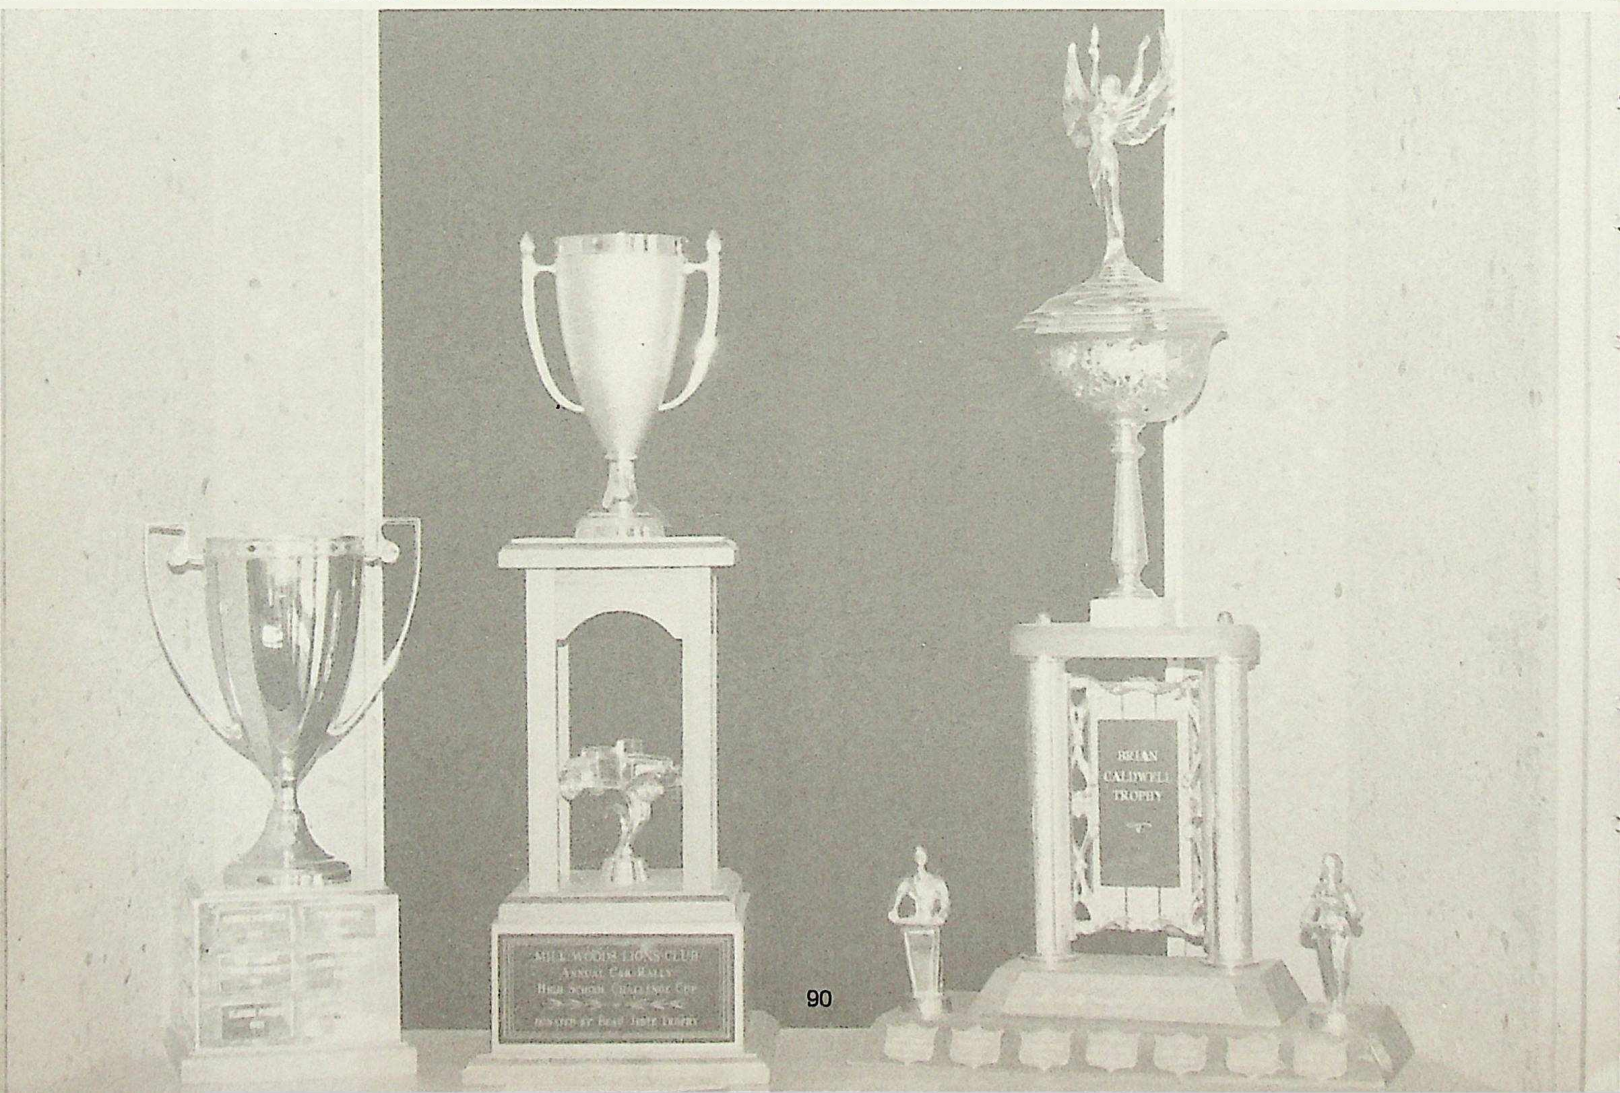

"I'm coming to get you"

SENIOR BOYS' BASKETBALL

WRESTLING

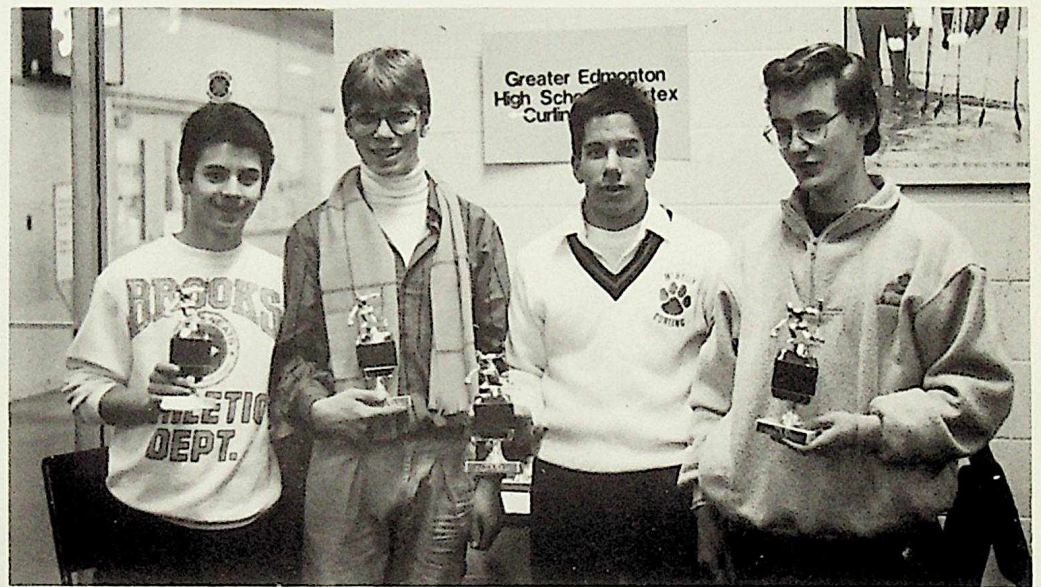

What muscles! What strength! The McNally wrestlers show great promise in the field of competition. These athletes have taken part in several tournaments and have been fairly successful in their efforts.

CURLING

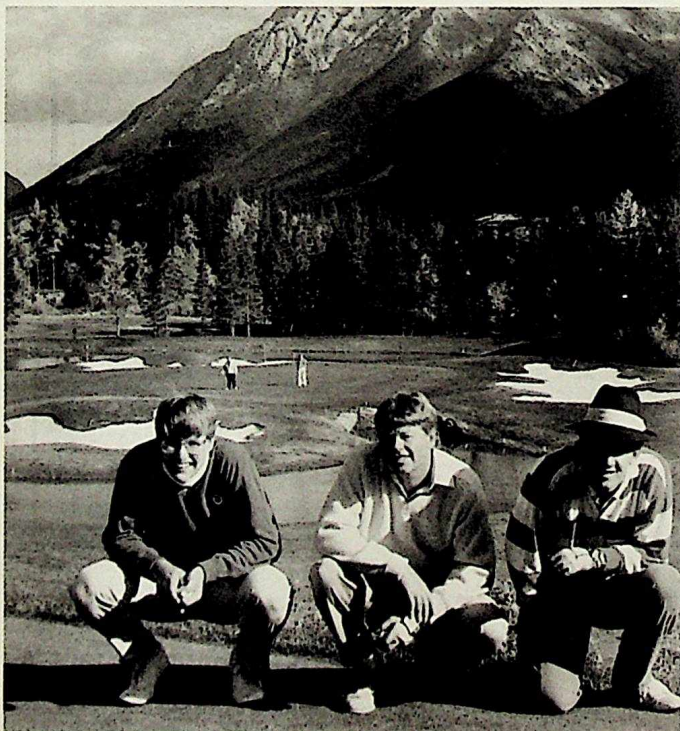

If your life centers about being a Skip or a Hammer, maybe you should consider joining the McNally curling club. If you even know what a Skip is, you should definitely join the team! Mr. Gilbey would be glad to have all the players he could get.

GOLF

The Golf Club took its annual trip to Kananaskis at the end of September '88. Participants were: Jason Davidson, Jesse Coull, Kent Richter, Colleen Karner, Patti Serman, Jason Yadlowsky, and Brian Holoboll. Teacher sponsors are: Miss. Smith, and Mr. Morris. The weather was good and the golf was wonderful. Another field trip is scheduled for the end of May.

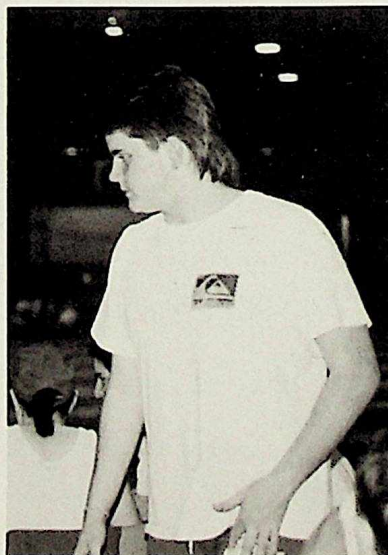

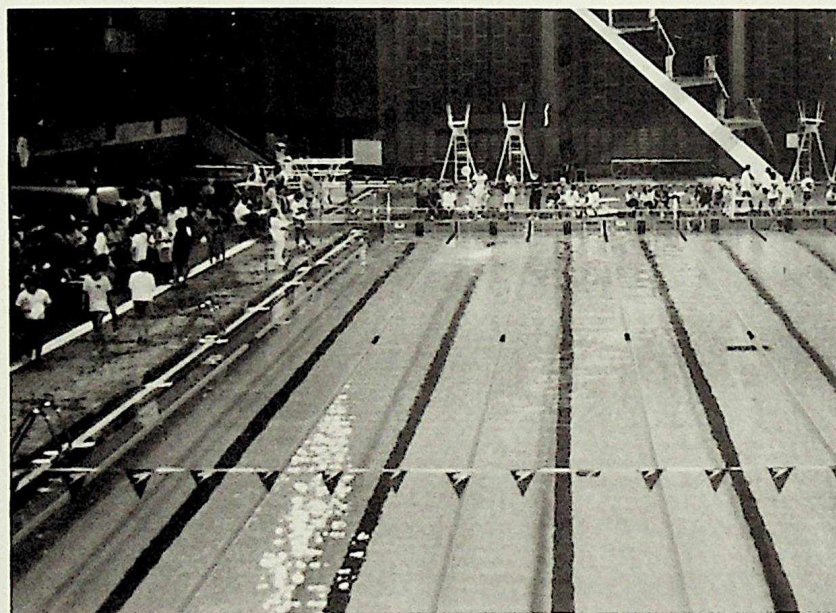

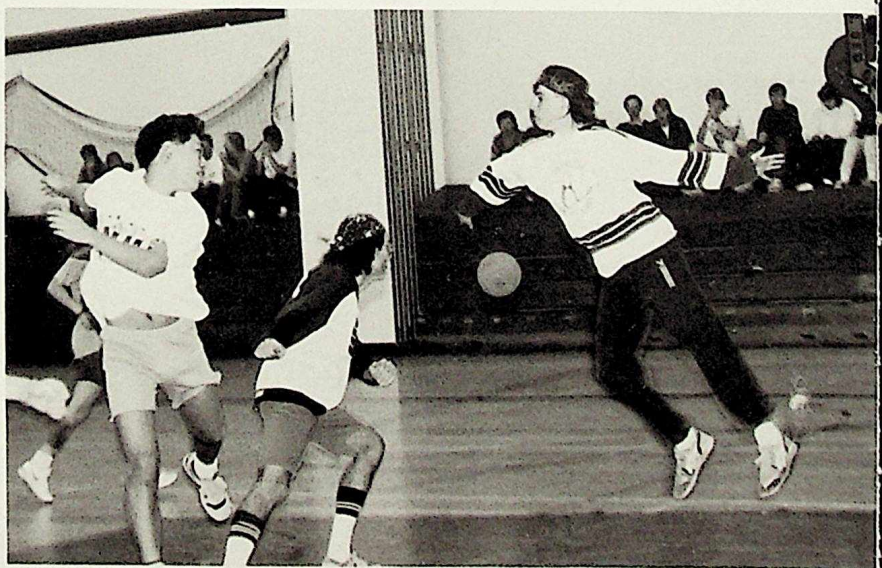

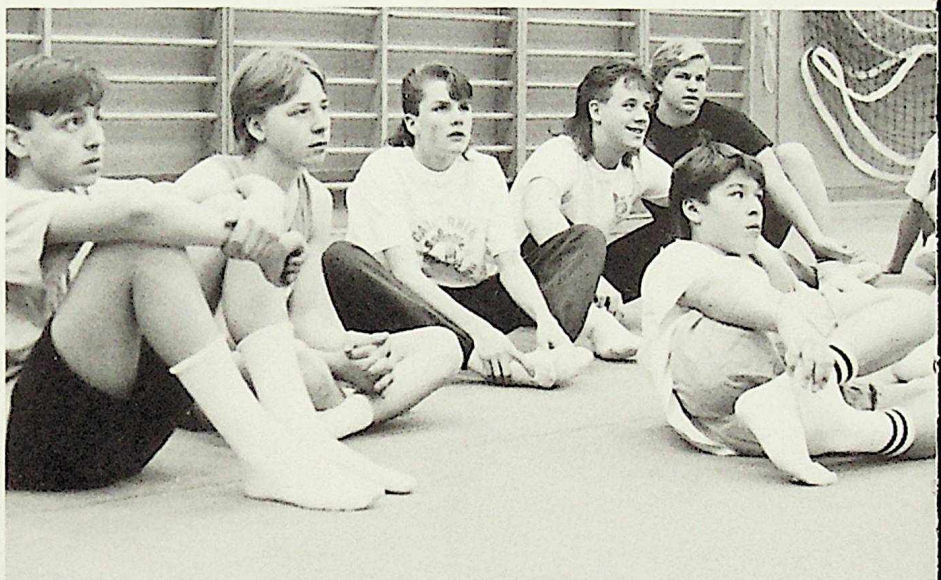

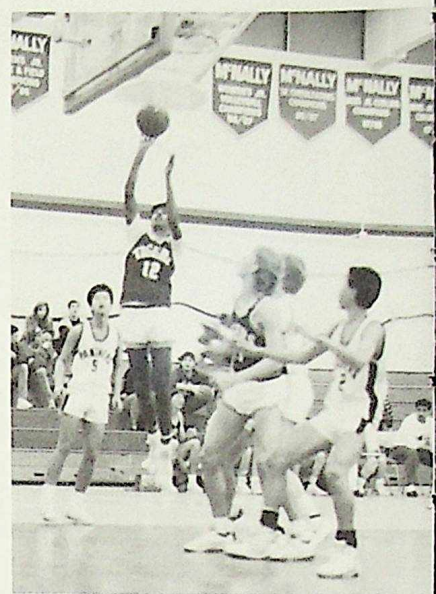

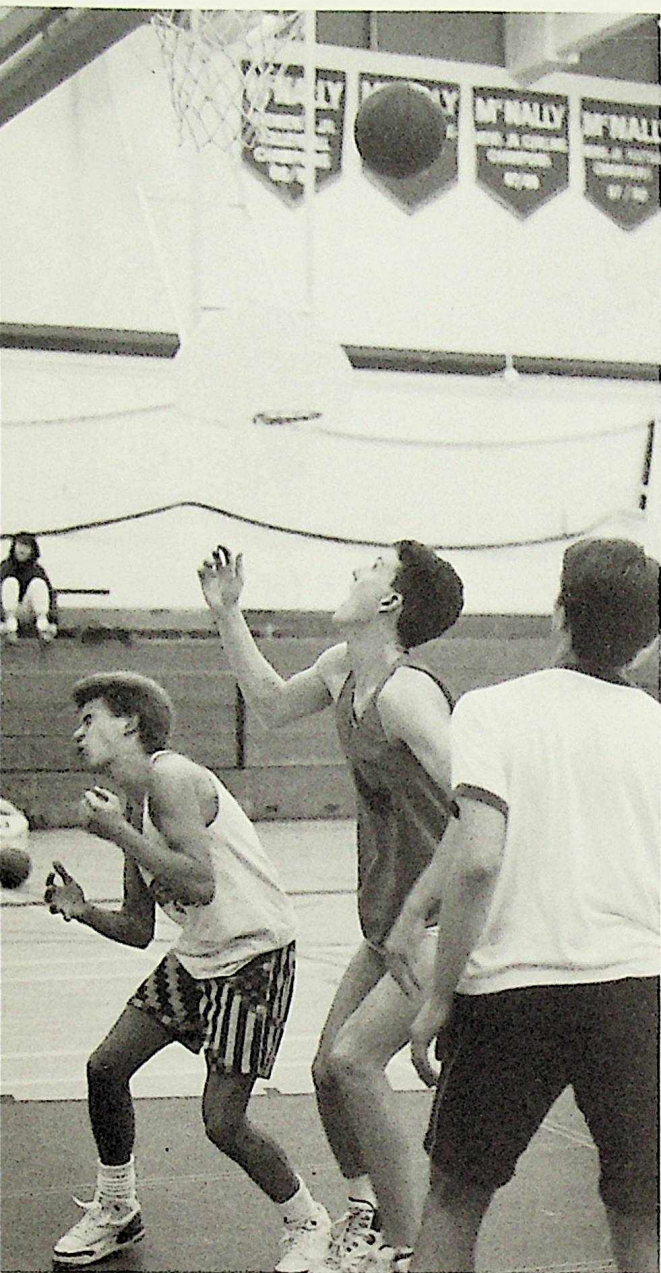

SWIMMING

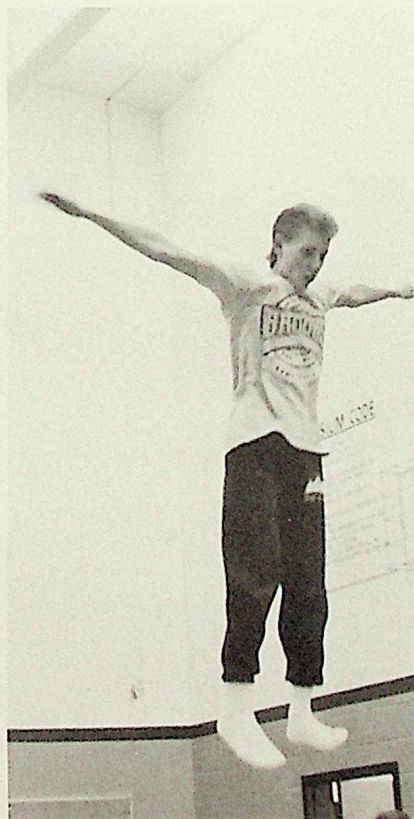

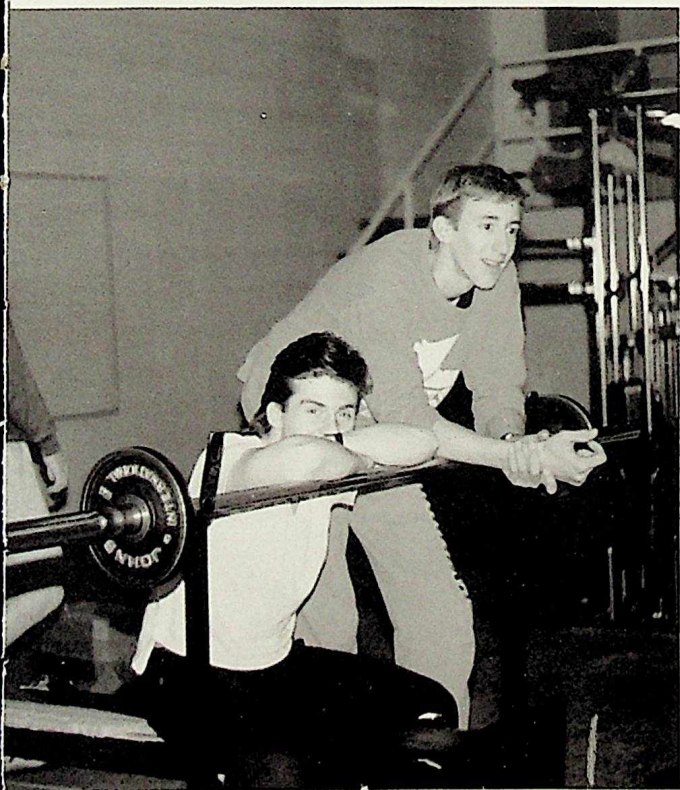

The team started out with about thirty enthusiastic people prepared to have a lot of fun but after three or four weeks of two hour long practices every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the swim team was thinned considerably by hard work. Those who stuck with the team throughout the season were: team captain, Amanda Chobatar. Novice: Graham Bradley, Jason Jeffery, Rob Priestley, Joel Schlesinger, Mike Weyer, Richard Wright, Trish Anderson, Glenda Fok, Carolyn Geekie, Colleen Hlus, Jo Lylick, Dana Sorensen, Karen Emmott, and Shawna De Vries. Open: David Weeks, Matthew Wiggins, Cheryl Kimak.

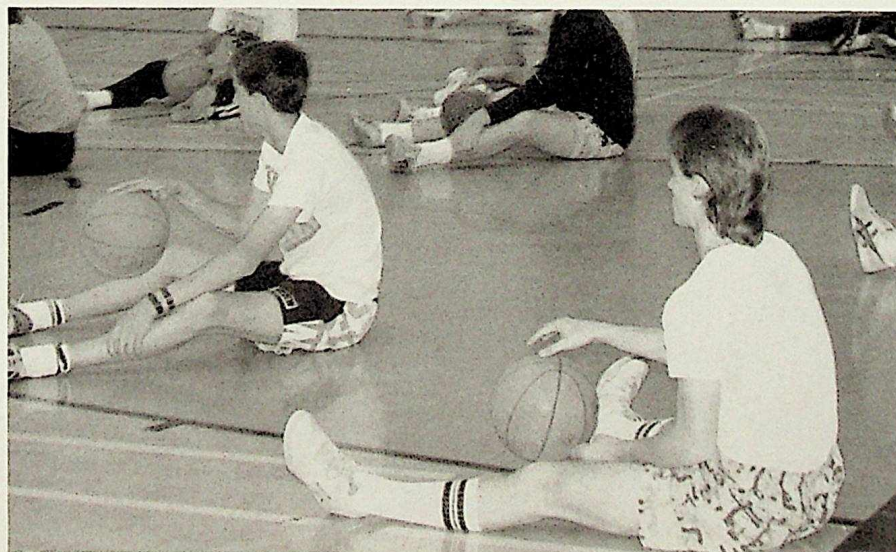

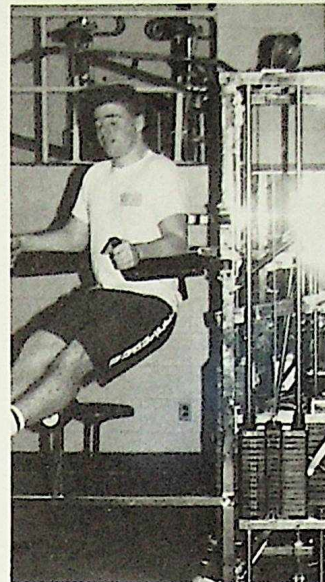

The coach of the swim team, and ex. McNallian, Randy Whillier, volunteered his time and skills. As a reward for his loyal service, he received repeated soakings, plenty of quick-witted wise cracks, and diligent obedience to his instruction.

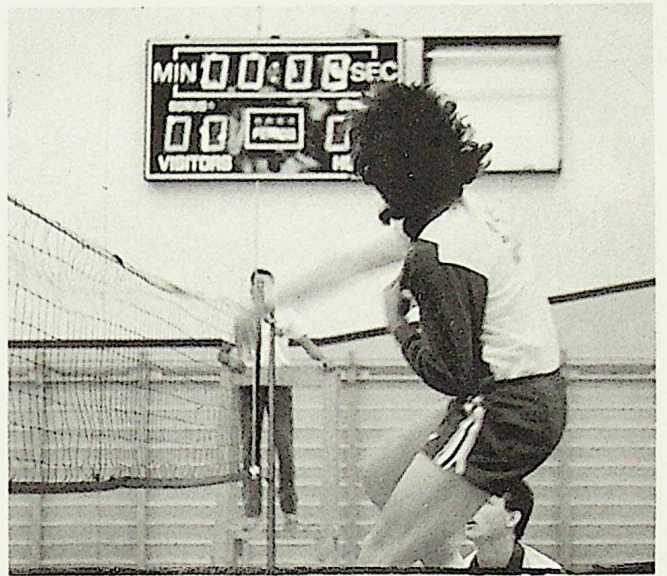

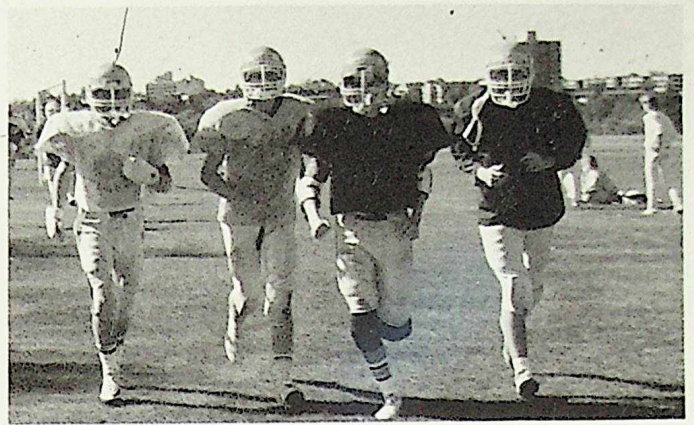

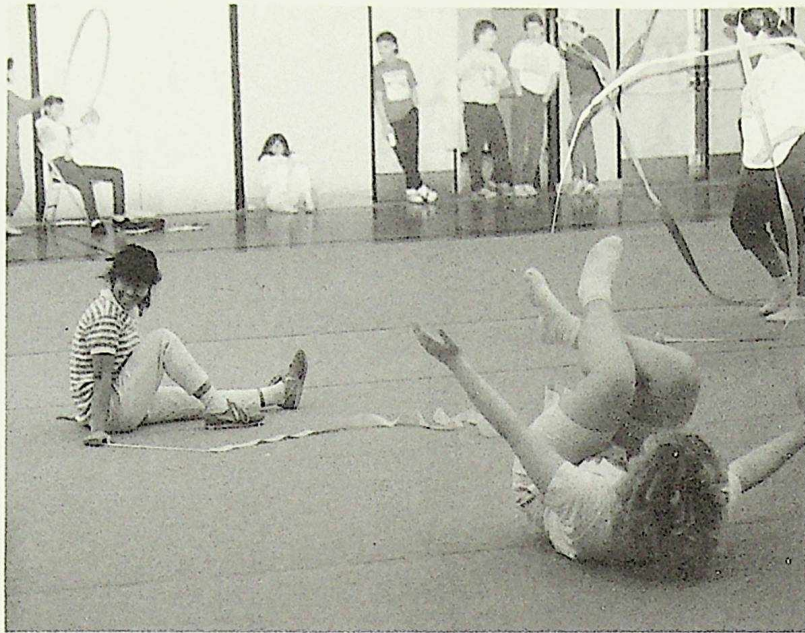

Hampered by lack of participants, the McNally team came in predictable third in most swim-meets throughout the year.

What is friendship? Where did it come from? What does it mean? Is it a game and can anyone play? Is it for one or many?

Friendship, a word to describe something totally outrageous, awesome and bizarre. A total blast. Friendship is something everyone, everywhere, in every day and age looks for. But people are always asking exactly what it is. We all know it's great, but isn't there more than that? Friendship is a shoulder upon which to rest your head, a shoulder you can count on every time. It is laughter and the sharing of great times, and the people we make those great times with. Friendship comes from the word friend. Friends; take a look around, do you see them? They're the ones who are going to sign this book, the ones you talk about all the great times with. Friendship can be love, security, dreams shared, long walks, endless talks. Friendship is a feeling and a tear. It is trust and honesty. Friends are happiness without them we would be lost, bitter without smiles. Friendship is here for you, for me, for everyone. Look around you and see the faces passing, see them drifting by you, caught up in their world of friendship. Friendship is good, great, and it's ultimate. It is something we live for, dream of, cherish, remember. It is something that grows without limit, for the touching of two souls can know no boundaries, have no horizon. A friend could be a puppy, a kitten, a boy, a girl, a lover, of any color, of any race. A friend is a hug, warmth from the cold, a caring voice. A friend can be silence, friendship is shared without voice, without sight. A friend is someone needed, wanted. So reach out your hand, and look around, friendship is something for all. So go on, don't hold back, take part. Make a friend today, and tomorrow you will be richer.

So you're finally here, you've finally hit it, The Big Time. It was supposed to be the place where the teachers were mean, and the girls all dated older guys, where tryouts were rough, and marks were supposed to drop. It was a place where you didn't mess with the Grade 12's and you didn't talk to anyone outside of your crowd, a place where the cliques could make you crack and the homework could make you sick. So what, do you ask, is this article all about? It's about you, Grade 10, the things you've heard, and the things you know. Of course, you realize now that you're here, that there are no tough teachers, and some, yes some girls do date guys their same age. You realized that you could make the team and ace the grade. It's a place where friends were everywhere and the homework really wasn't all that bad (okay, it did make you a little sick, but you can't win them all!). This was your year of transition, your year of change, of growth, where you moved from the world of kids to coolness, innocence to maturity, GWG's to Polo. Where guys went from combs to brushes and mousse, girls became "women", and boys became "men" (at least in some eyes). This was a year in which you learned what fear really felt like (remember registration, froshing . . .).

And now you're ready, you're on your way, it's not too far, Grade 11. Can't you wait? Well, perhaps for a couple of months . . .

I suppose we've all felt bad at sometime, felt that endless drowning sensation of being spun around in a whirlwind sea of the world's problems, all thrown at us at once. I suppose we've all walked down what seemed to be an endless hallway between class, searching ourselves for what we could find left of hope; but there was none. It seemed that we were screaming into a blank and dark world where nothing existed, except you and that tormenting wall which held you from a smile. Upon it was written all your problems, and here you were left alone to solve them.

I also suppose that we've all had someone walk up to us, when our head was down, with our heart and soul floating away. They wrapped their arms around us, crushing those walls. They filled us again with hope, with fire. I suppose that those caring words we heard them say were great, but they also had something to back them up. That something is what a hug is. A hug is warmth from a caring soul, something to grasp on to, something to give us life. That is what a hug is; a hug is a smile.

I suppose we've all done something wonderful, and felt fantastic. We've helped someone who was hurt, won a trophy or a championship, an election, had a dream come true, fallen in love, met an old friend.

I suppose we've all screamed at the top of our lungs in exhilaration, or cried our hearts out for joy. I suppose each of us, after something great happened, has walked up to another, to others; and like a mirror, there were arms everywhere. Whether it be four, ten or a hundred arms, they all had one aim—to be wrapped around someone else, to share the exhilaration, the hope, the spirit, the great times, the best of times. Each new day gives us an opportunity to grasp, to hold, to hug with all your might.

Yes, it is truly amazing what a pair of arms can do!

AND YOU THINK IT'S COLD IN SIBERIA

Once again this year the hallowed halls of our beloved institution resounded with heart-felt cries of, "Boy this school is cold." For weeks the average temperature of the school rested at a steady sub-zero level, or that's what it felt like at least. Many was the time when freezing students resorted to donning gloves and scarves to keep the old vital juices from freezing up. The cafeteria did a booming business in the hot chocolate and coffee areas and many clever students could be found warming up in the only warm area in the school, the cafeteria.

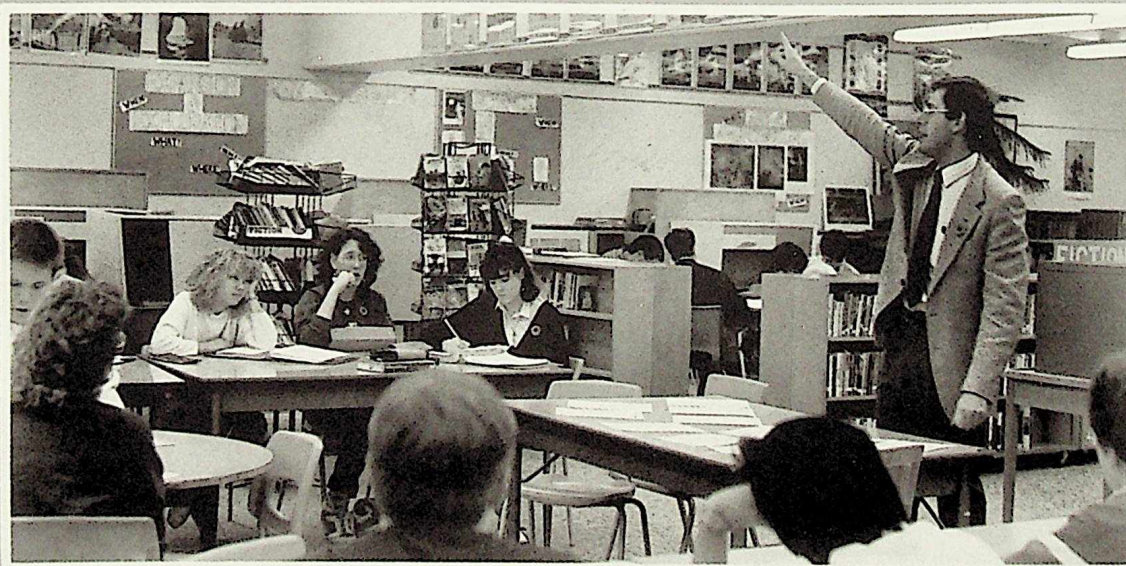

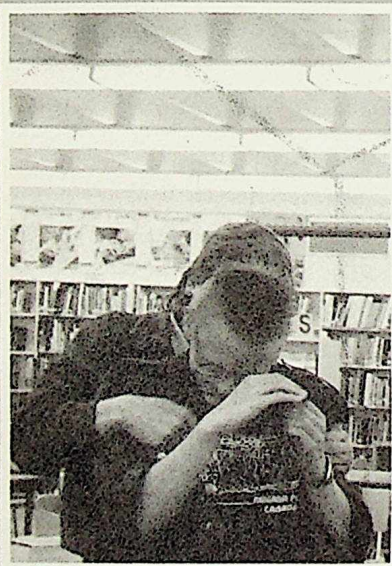

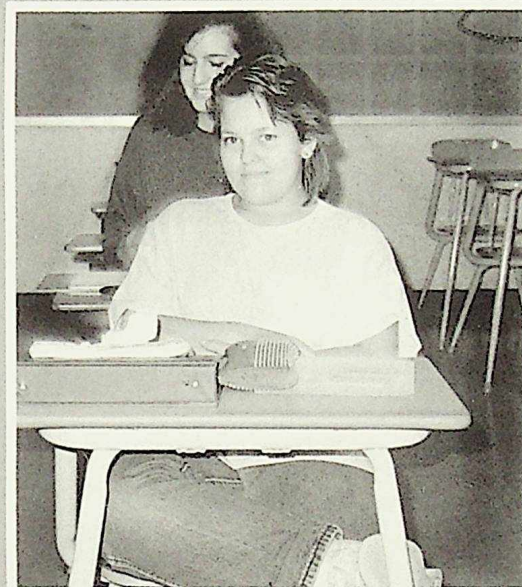

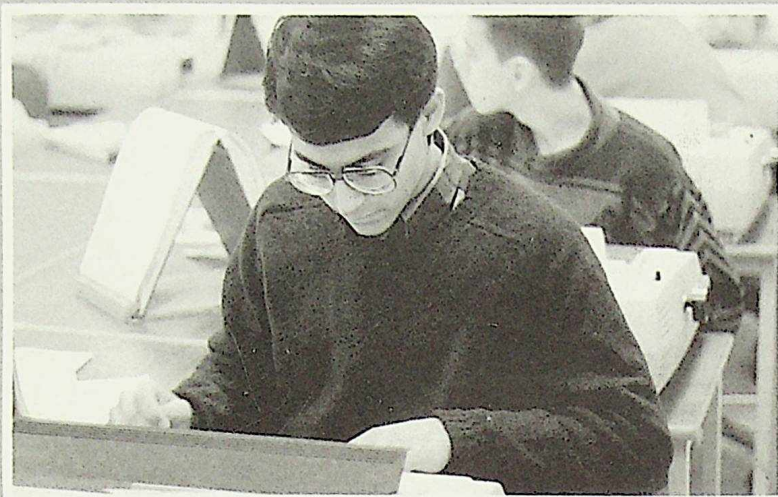

Here's a cheery thought to warm your mind until the heaters go on in June: the average yearly temperature in Siberia is two degrees Celcius warmer than Edmonton's. So take a vacation to Siberia and enjoy yourself.

ACADEMICS

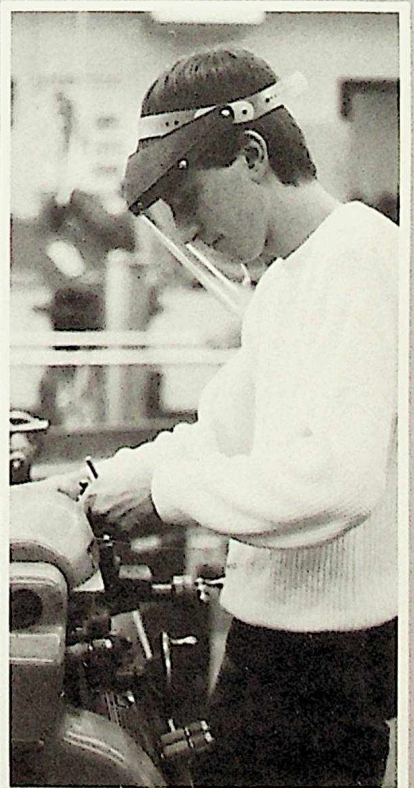

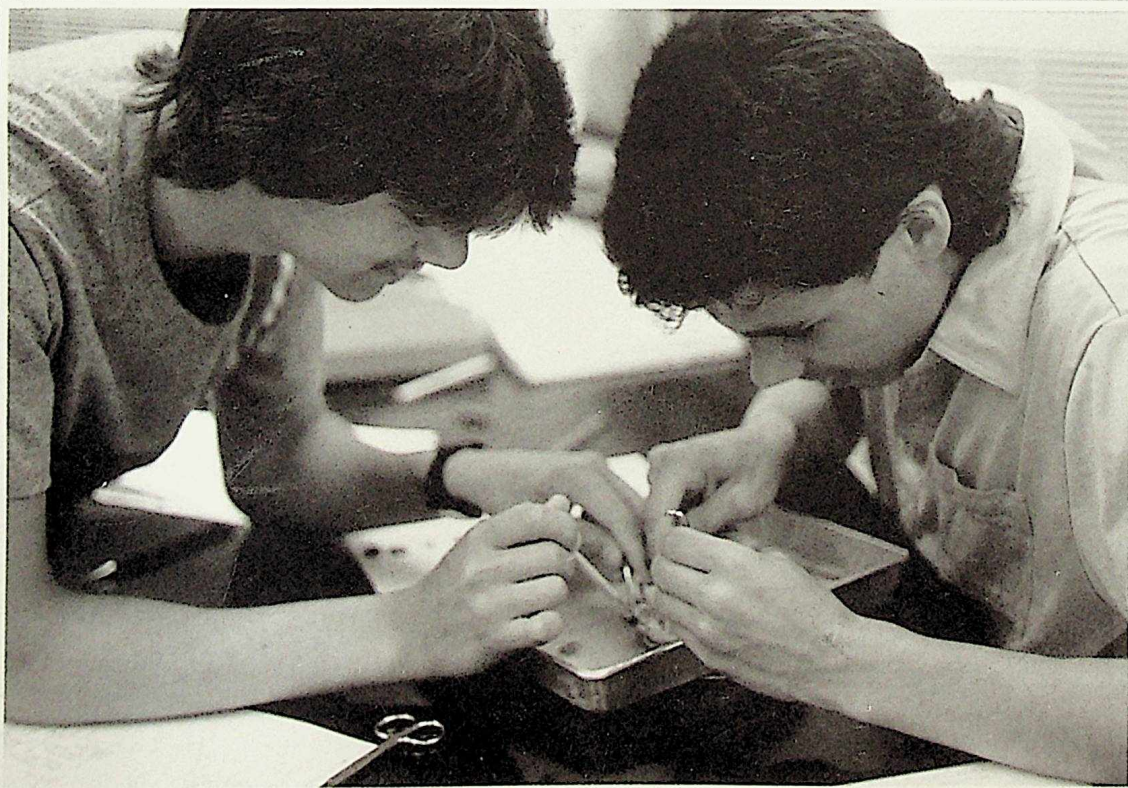

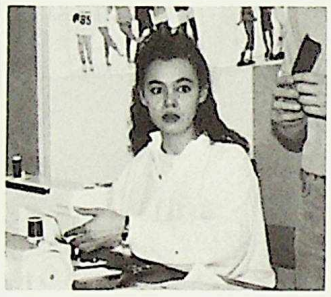

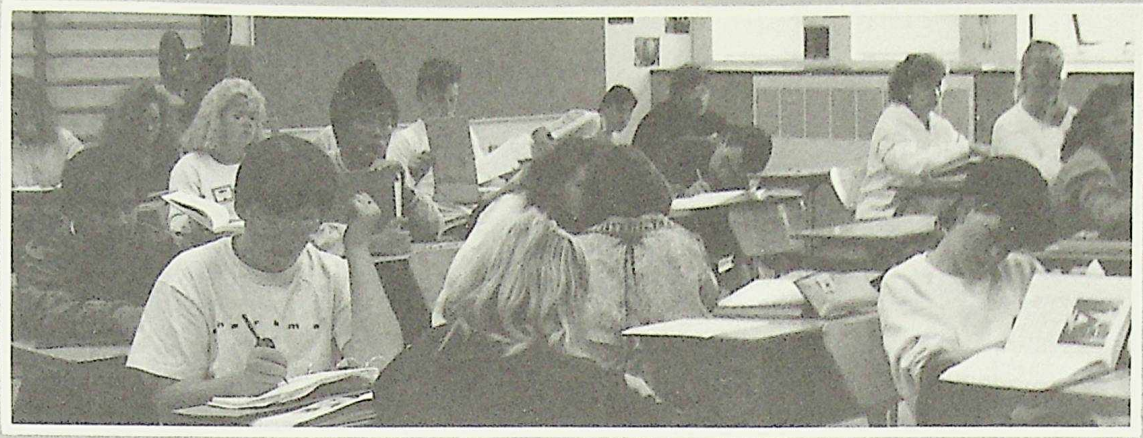

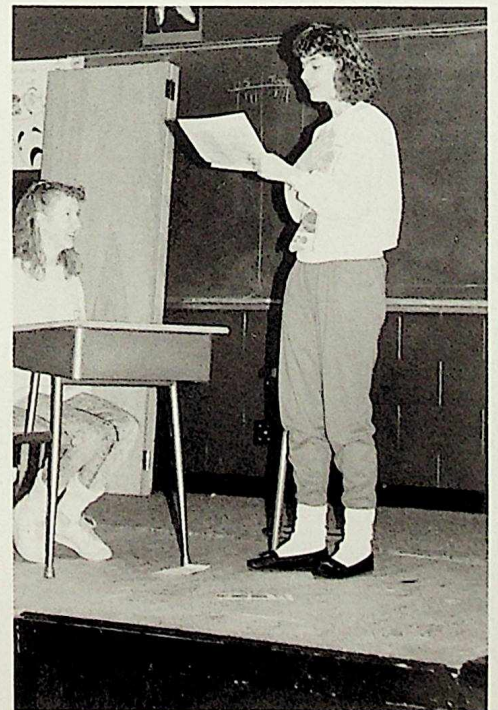

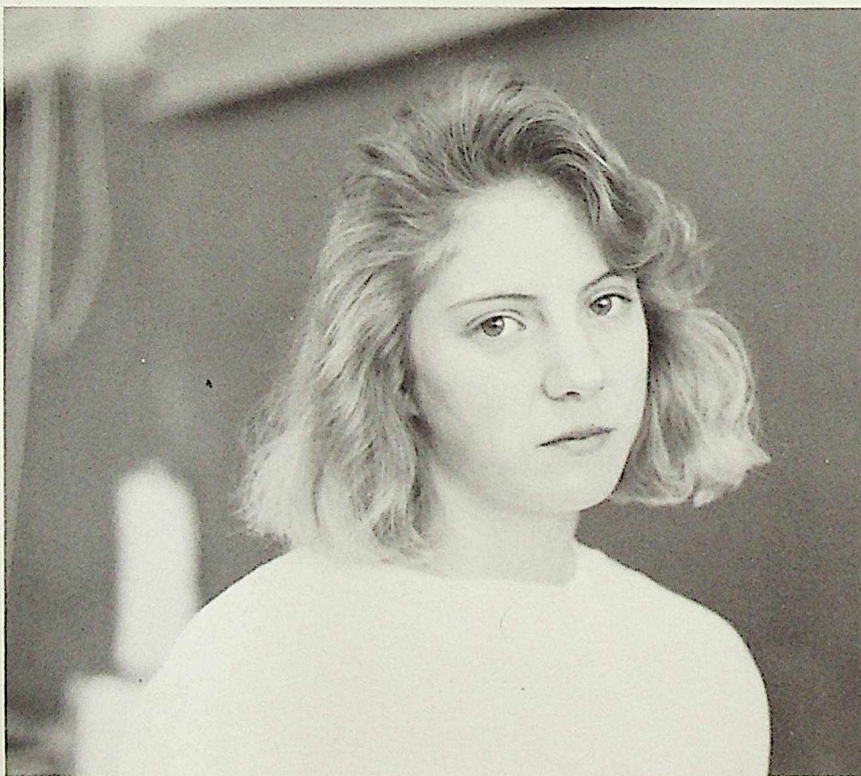

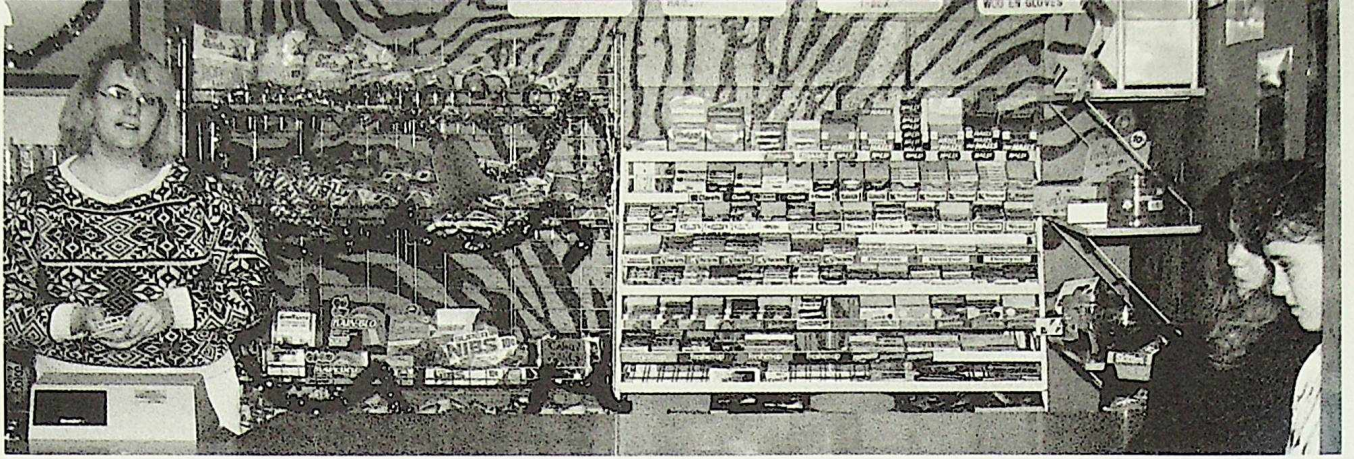

Do you remember the days long ago when you played king of the castle? Do you remember what your goal was? It was to be the best, above the rest, the King, the Leader. When you looked up that hill, you wanted to be up there, looking down, feeling proud and strong. You wanted to be On Top. Well, here you are, and you must admit it feels great! This is the place, this is the time, these are the people: the best. You've made it, you're looking down on the rest. You are a fundamental part of the best school anywhere, the best crowd, the hottest trends, the fastest cars and the latest music; you're looking down over the riverbank, the city, and every school but the one you belong to. You're in the clouds now. You are a part of championship teams, prized academics, great bands, hot clubs, Leaders, Movers, Shakers. Here you are in a school full of bright, talented, spirited people who are ready to rock the world. You have moved this school, this whole Generation AND Yourself to the place you truly belong, The Top. And you are one of those people; take a look at yourself, you're the best there is and you know it. You are part of a tradition, The McNally Tradition, the one YOU are making.

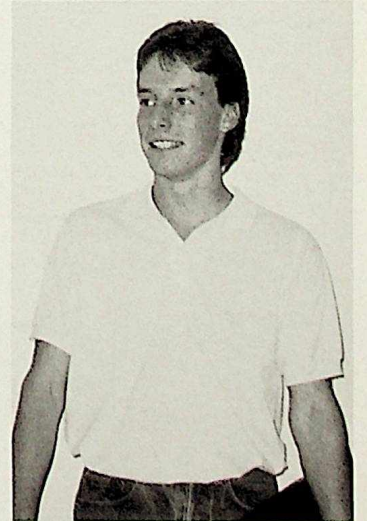

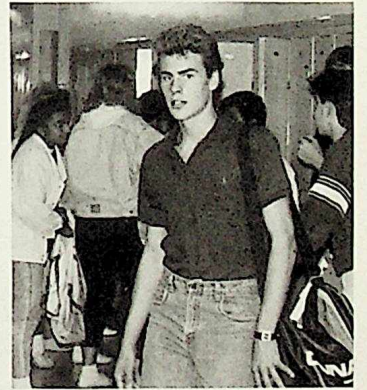

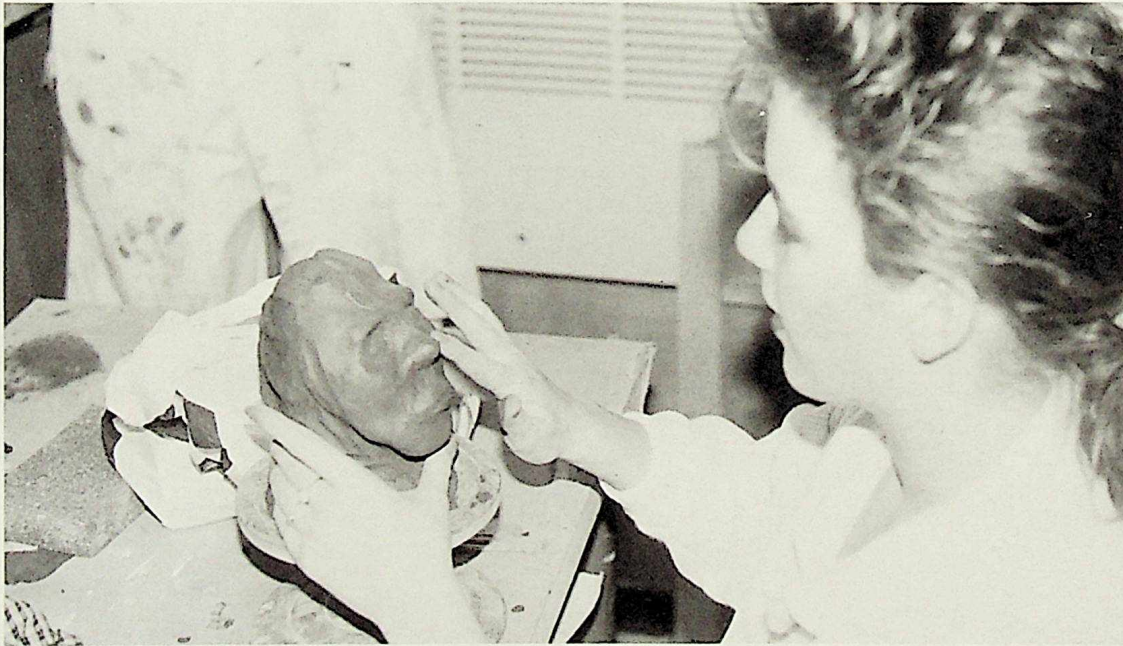

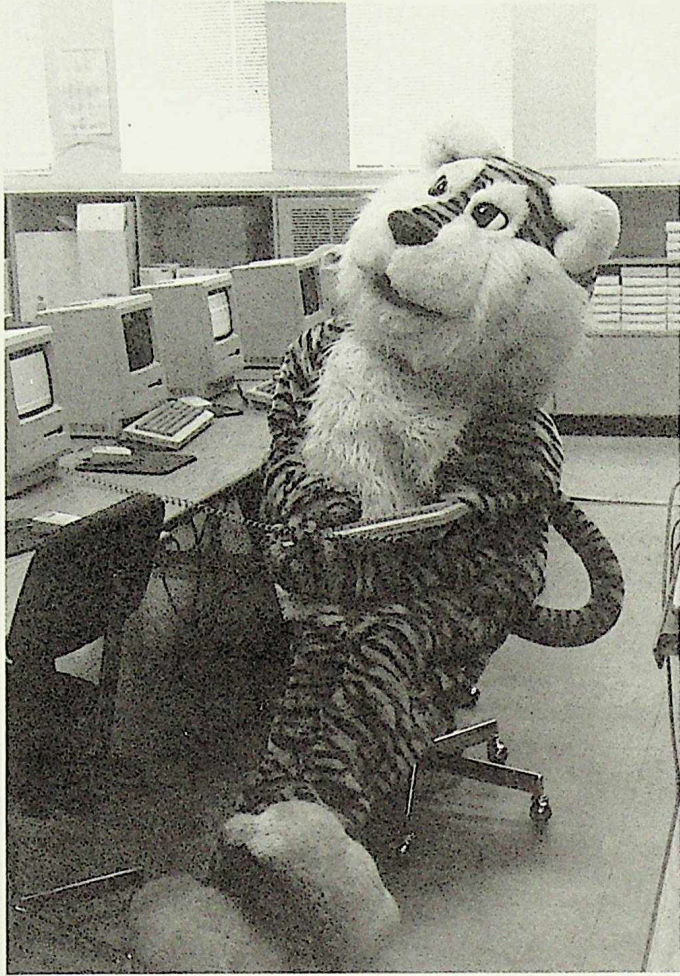

ACADEMICS

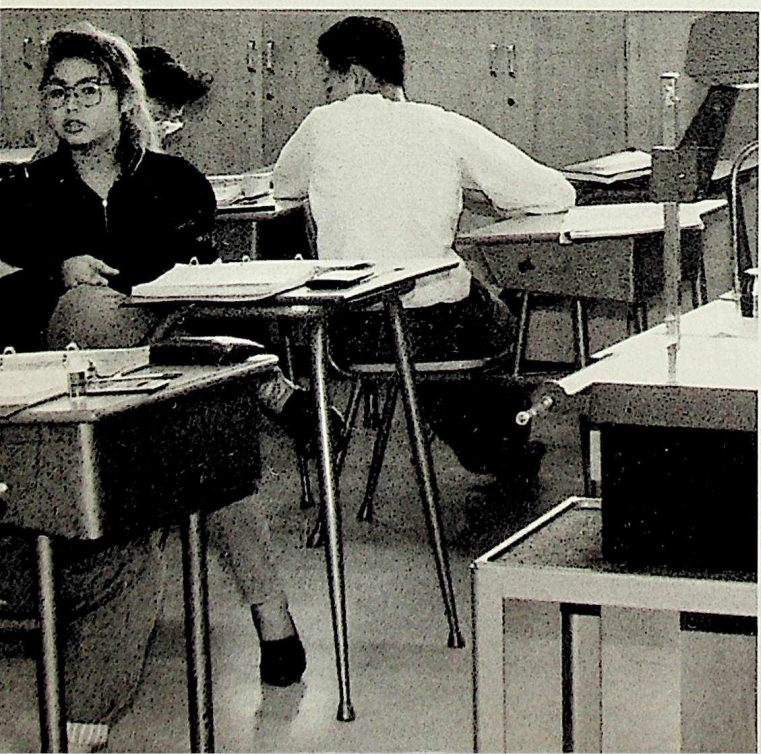

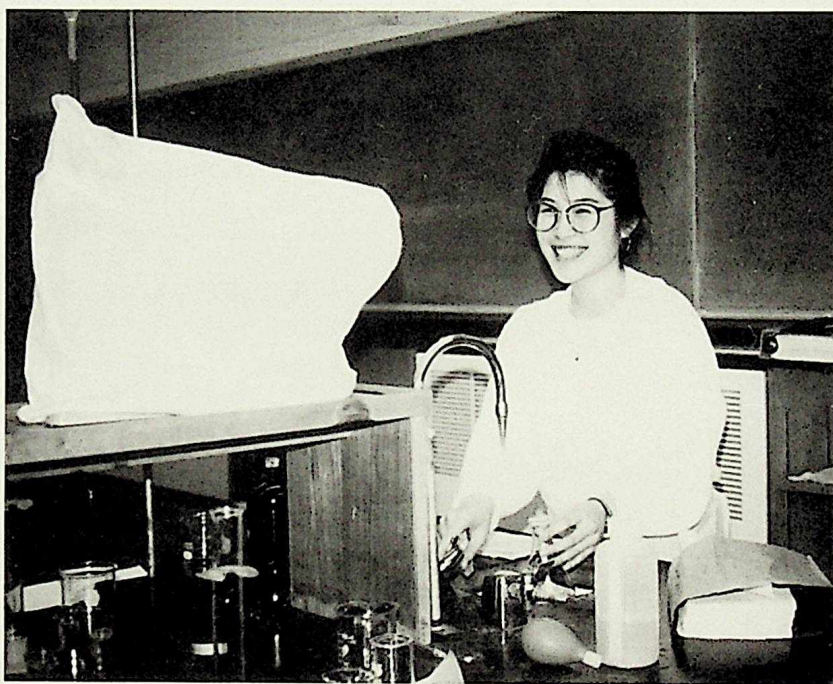

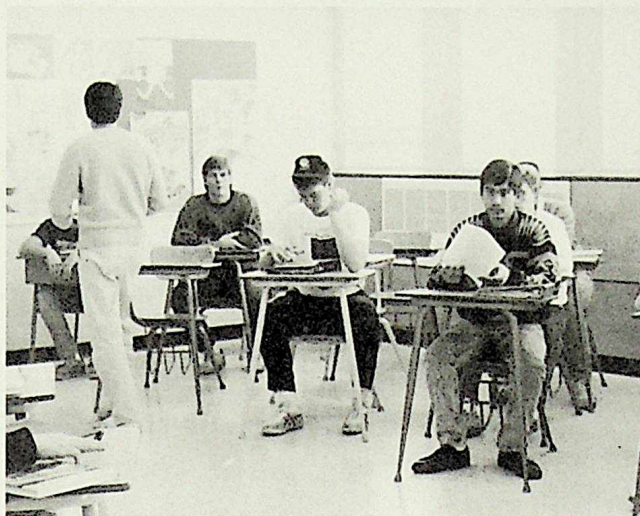

Hey! Is that a student I see over there? Yeah! It is! Funny, I never expected to see students in a school. Oh well, lets see what the students are up to....

STUDENT COUNCIL PRESIDENTS' MESSAGE

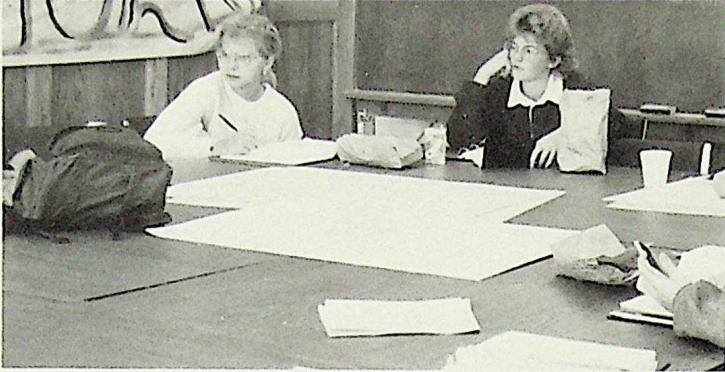

Being a part of this years Student Council has been a learning experience for us. We would like to take this opportunity to thank each member of the council, as well as some great non-members and Mrs. Smith our adviser, who put in countless hours to make all of this year's activities a success. Most of all thanks to everyone for making the 1988-89 McNally year, through their involvement and pride in their school.

We wish everyone the best of luck in the coming year.

STUDENT UNION

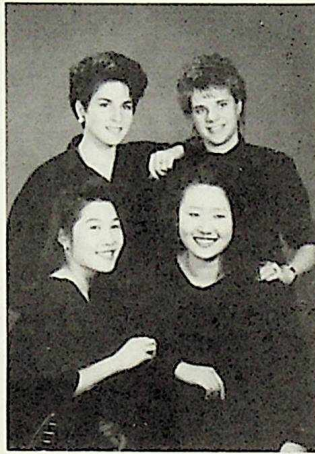

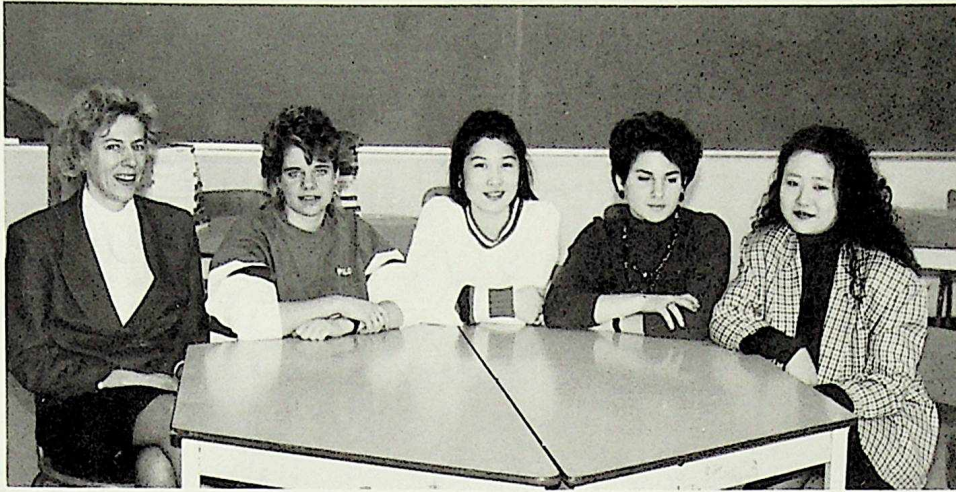

GRAD COUNCIL

Our three years at McNally have passed by quickly and it is hard to believe that our high school days have finally ended. Our high school years at McNally contain unforgettable memories - meeting new people, having good times with friends, studying hard (at least five minutes before class), but most of all, tasting and enjoying the slices of pie that life gives us, and learning from them. We are all heading to the future with many dreams and great expectations. Hopefully we will all strive for the best and succeed in all we do. I would like to thank all the Graduates of 1989 for their friendship, support, dedication, and hard work. Thank-you McNally for all the memories you have taught us which make us who we

The Aeroscience Club was started this year to increase awareness of careers and other opportunities of aeronautics and aerospace. Students study historical developments in these fields, take field trips to museums, airports and control centers and get some flight experience. They also study advanced technologies as they apply to aircraft and construct advanced technology paper aircraft and use aircraft advanced technologies to construct other projects.

The 1988-89 school year saw the creation of a unique club — the McNally Astronomy Club. It is the first such club in an Edmonton highschool and offers to its members a variety of interesting activities.

The club hosted Star Nights and frequently visited the Edmonton Space Sciences Center. It became associated with such other groups as the Planetary Society and the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada. Club members frequently prepared talks on their individual topics of interest — topics such as quasars, pulsars, supernovas, and many extinctions. For McNally students the years ahead promise further development of this hobby — after all, "the sky's the limit!"

HIKING

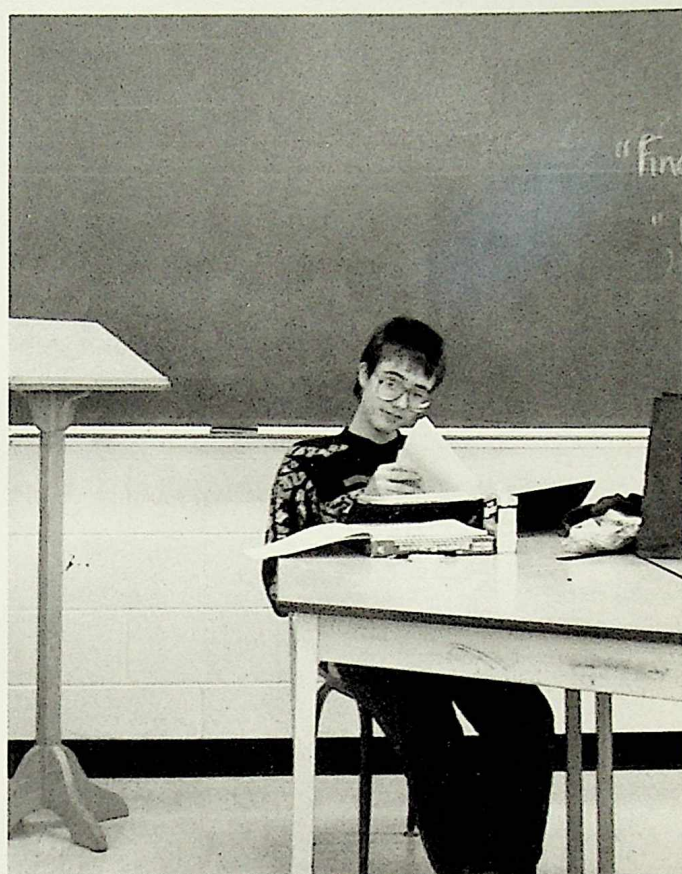

Trekking through the mountains, watching gorgeous sunrises from a sleeping bag somewhere in the wilderness, or even hiking down into the river valley at lunch hours are just some of the wonderful things the hiking club does. If you like getting to know nature and meeting new friends, then maybe hiking could open a whole new world for you. Mr. Johnson or Mrs. Maguire would be happy to bring you along if you asked them.

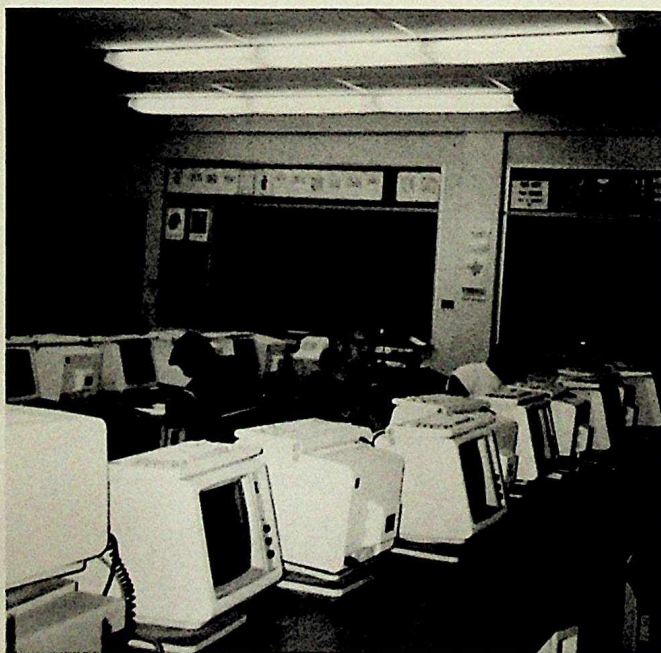

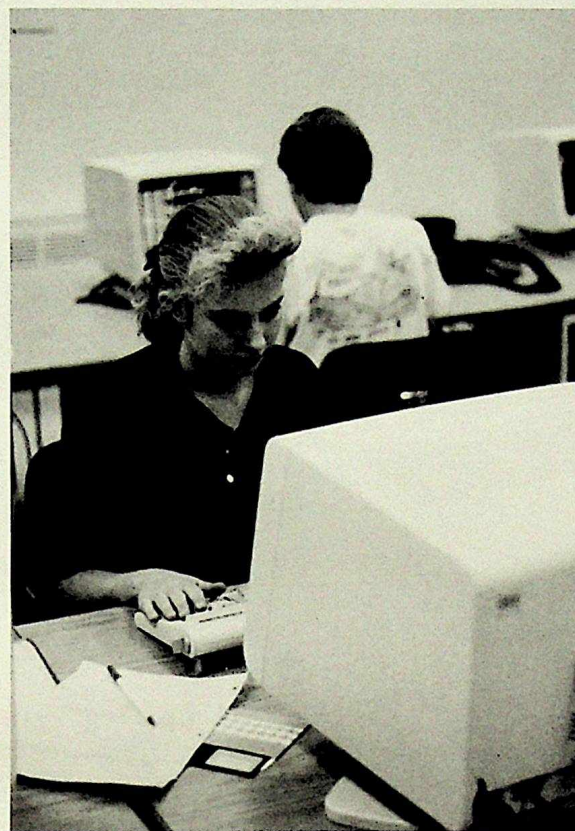

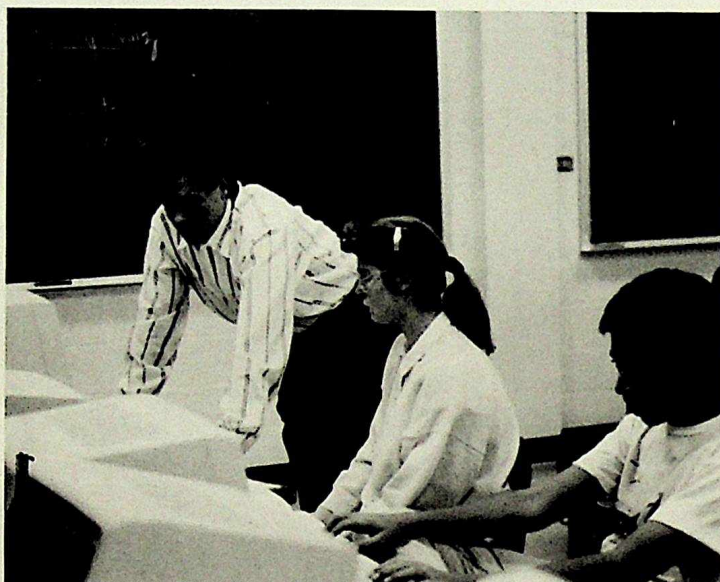

ROLE PLAYING

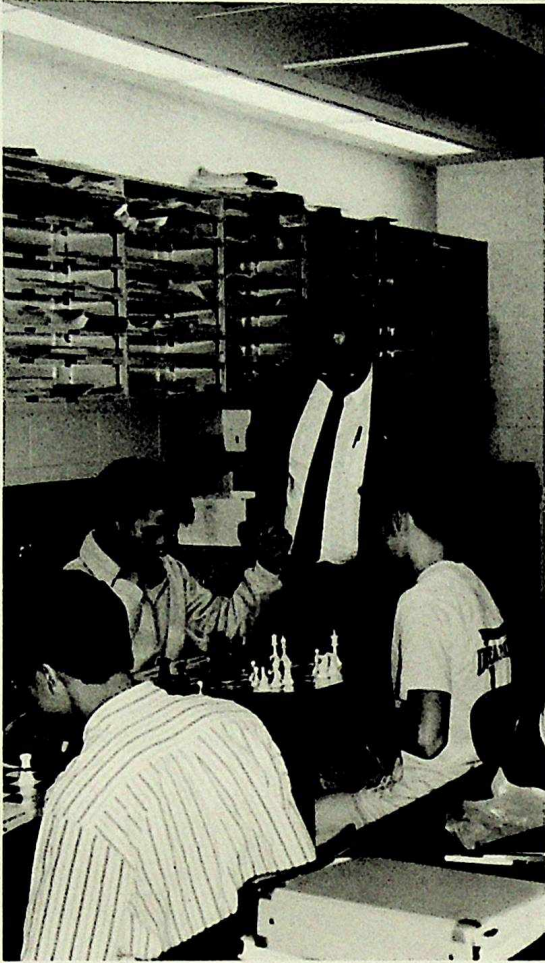

Do your fantasies include dragons(beg-und),(end-und) elves, halflings and horrible monsters? Do you like to make up fantastic story lines and weird characters with which to play? If so then you belong in the Role Playing club, where it is not unusual to find hidden treasure, kill a red dragon and bewitch a Golum, all in one lunch hour. Bring your imaginations, your dungeon modules, or what have you, and live an incredible adventure in your spare time.

COMPUTER

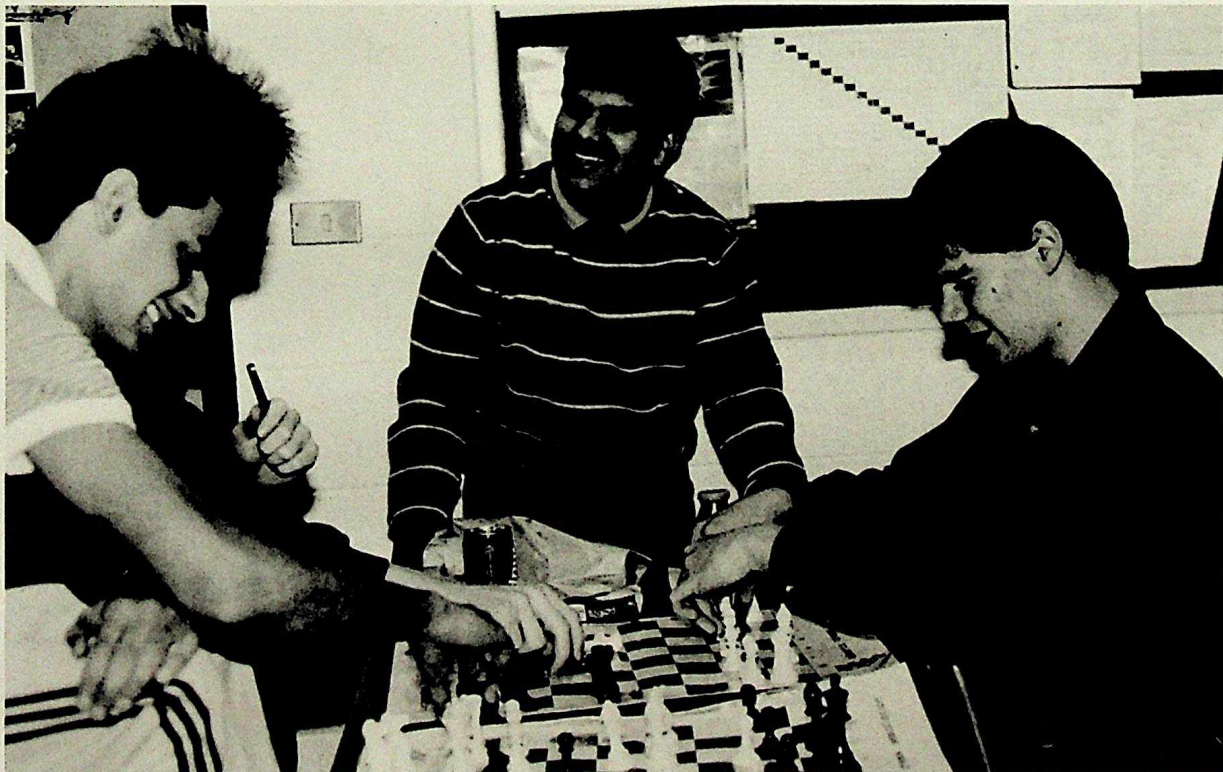

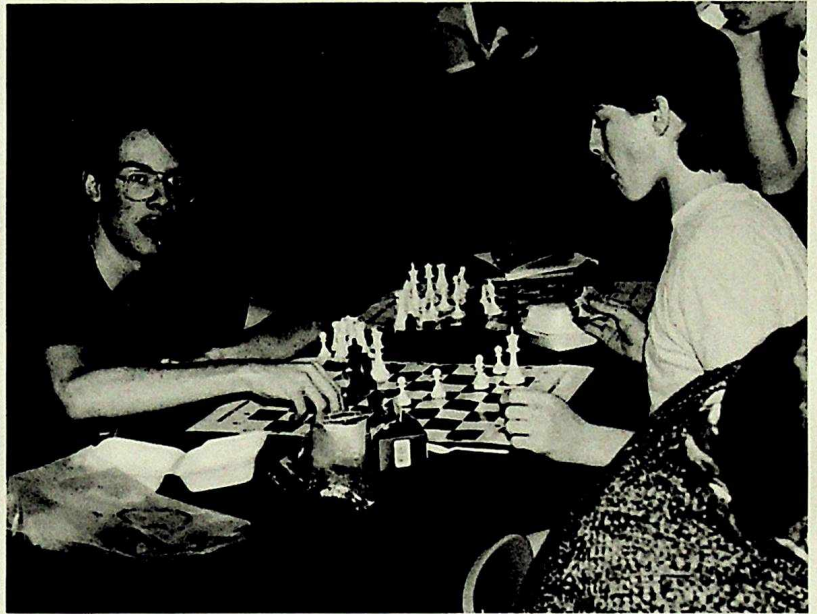

If programming and fiddling around with the computer just tickles you pink, then you might want to go to the computers club meetings and have a (beg-und)peek(end-und) at what is going on. Give Mr. Silverman a (beg-und)poke(end-und) and see if he gives you an (beg-und)error statement(end-und). Perhaps Ms. Moore or Mr. Rudko can help you if you are stuck in a (beg-und)loop(end-und) with no hope of (beg-und)escape(end-und). Try it! Maybe you'll like it. (beg-sha)

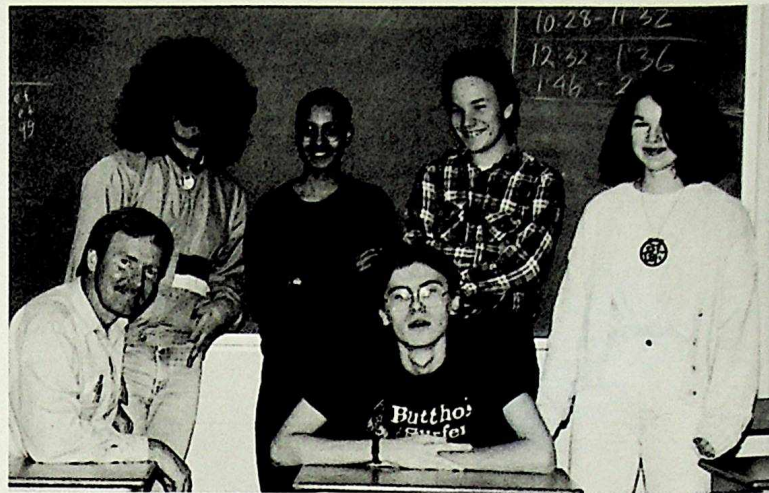

CHESS

If you love to play chess, whether it's because you like the challenge or simply you enjoy playing with other people, then you should consider coming on into the chess club meetings. Mr. Glasel can teach you everything you want to know (but were afraid to ask) about chess, so give it a chance.

BATMAN

*I was never told that heroes could fail
I was there when Robin yelled
'Holy Fishtales' the Joker's loose again
I never thought that we could die
As Superman races to save the day
And Spiderman chases the crooks away
As time goes by and I grew older
The pages seem to fade
I looked down on Robin's grave
Tears fell from my black mask
Superman hung up his cape
And watched the grey seep in Spiderman's been buried in an unmarked grave
Why wasn't I told that we hero's grow old?
I too hung up my cape and mask
The Dynamic Duo is no more
I look up to the darkened sky
Where the Bat Signal shines away
That's someone else's job now*

CHRISTOPHER

*With every rising sun
My heart beats faster
With every pounding beat
I dream of you
Guns and roses
Love and hate
My world is so confusing
Without you
I sit here waiting
Knowing that someday
I will call you mine
Mine to have and to hold
For now and forever
Mine to love

GRAD SKI TRIP

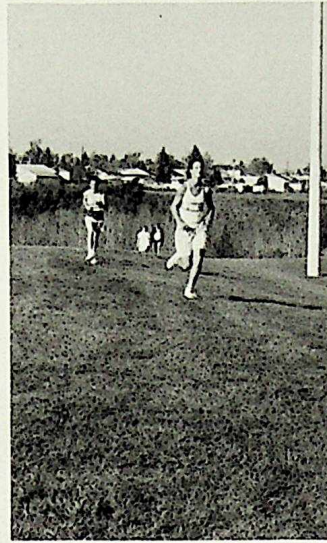

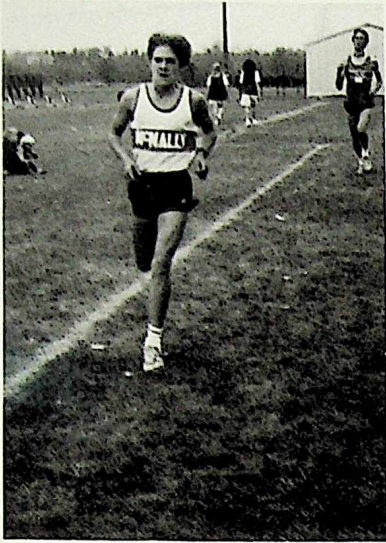

BADMINTON

Birdy-smashing is a very common occurrence in this McNally club. Mrs. Dickie can often be found down in the gym, racket in hand, completing a magnificent overhead clear. If this sounds strange to you, don't worry, it's only the Badminton club practicing in the gymnasium. The club competes throughout the year with other schools and clubs and would welcome any new members who wish to join.

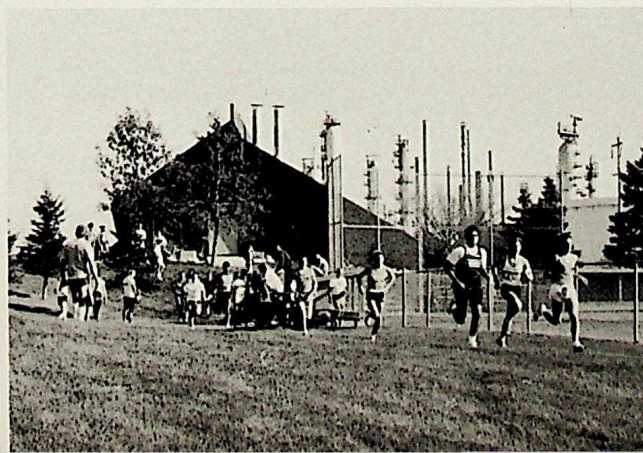

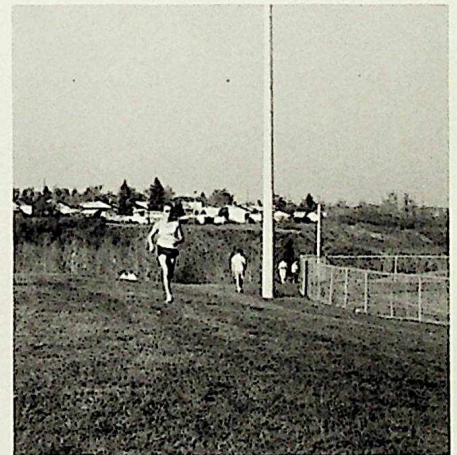

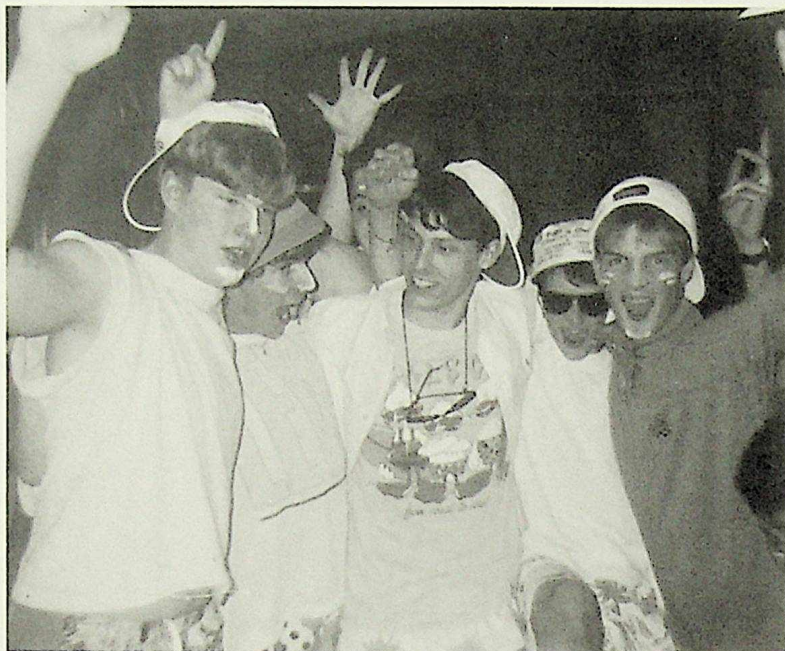

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING

Marathons; 5 km runs; a jog around the park. These are the things that give the running club members a real thrill. Maybe your heart speeds up at the thrill of completing a good run; in which case you should be doing it in the company of the running club. The goal of the club is for each person to log 50 hours of running time. So if you love to run and want to keep in shape, then take a chance and run with us!

YOUNGLIFE

This world-wide organization offers fun and excitement for everyone! Those crazy Younglifers do some wild and wacky things; running through swamps, staging car rallies, and participating in various skits and activities. A summer camp called Malibu, is run by Younglife and every year, kids from all over the United States and Canada gather there to have a great time. Younglife is a great way to get together with old friends and to make new friends at McNally as well as in other schools in different cities and countries. So come join and become as wild and wacky as we are!

Members: Rob Priestly, Jodi Robertson, Jodi Shewchuk, Jen Morin, Stephanie Maitson, Karen Guillespie, Rachel Hobbs, Dana Sorenson. Leaders: Bill Hilton, Gilbert Ngi, Russ Kelleman, Sam and Marty.

TRAVEL CLUB

How sweet it was! Twenty four days exploring the beaches, cities, mountains and forests on the other side of the world! Climate shock was the hardest thing we had to face when we jetted to the South Pacific. We left Edmonton in minus 20 degrees temperatures and landed in plus 35 degrees temperatures in Fiji eighteen hours later. But the beaches and clear blue water and the exciting lifestyles of the rich and famous were easy to take for the next four days.

Then it was off to Australia and surfers' paradise, Brisbane (site of World Expo '88) and Sydney and the great barrier reef. The physical senses were always under bombardment exotic animals, thousands of miles of coastline, lush vegetation and weird animals. Everything was different, but the people were incredibly friendly.

New Zealand was everything people said it would be — green, rolling, magnificent! It was fascinating every moment we were there. Auckland was great, and we got to know the people really well spending three nights billeted in New Zealanders' homes and one day in school. Unforgettable! It's the only way to describe our visit and we vowed to return some day soon.

In '89 the Travel Club's trip down under was definitely the highlight of our school year — perhaps all of high school. Everyone should join.

TIGER FANS

Here is the Sr. Football Team. The team that many people idolized and did anything just to see their games. Great going guys.

No matter what the weather, where the games were or how they got there, the fans were right behind them. At the end of a game the fans would go home proud, excited and with hoarse voices.

Future Tiger? She knows what is good for her!

The song that reminds us of the seniors is "Kick" by Inxs. In the near future we all hope that other teams will have the same drive and "Desire" as this team did and they too could find themselves as CITY CHAMPS! (88-89)

Cheerleading

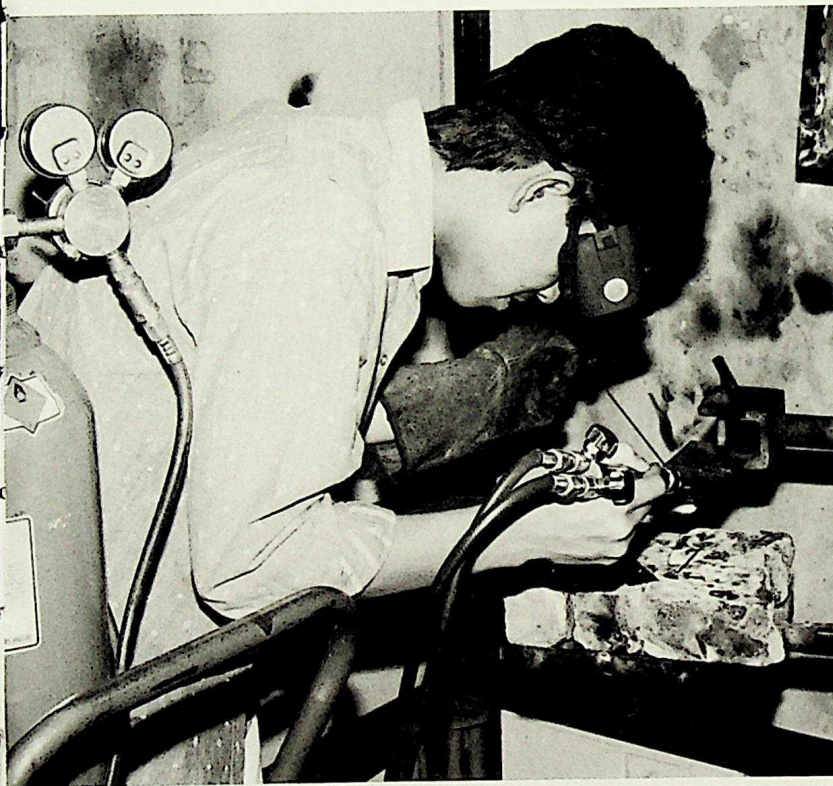

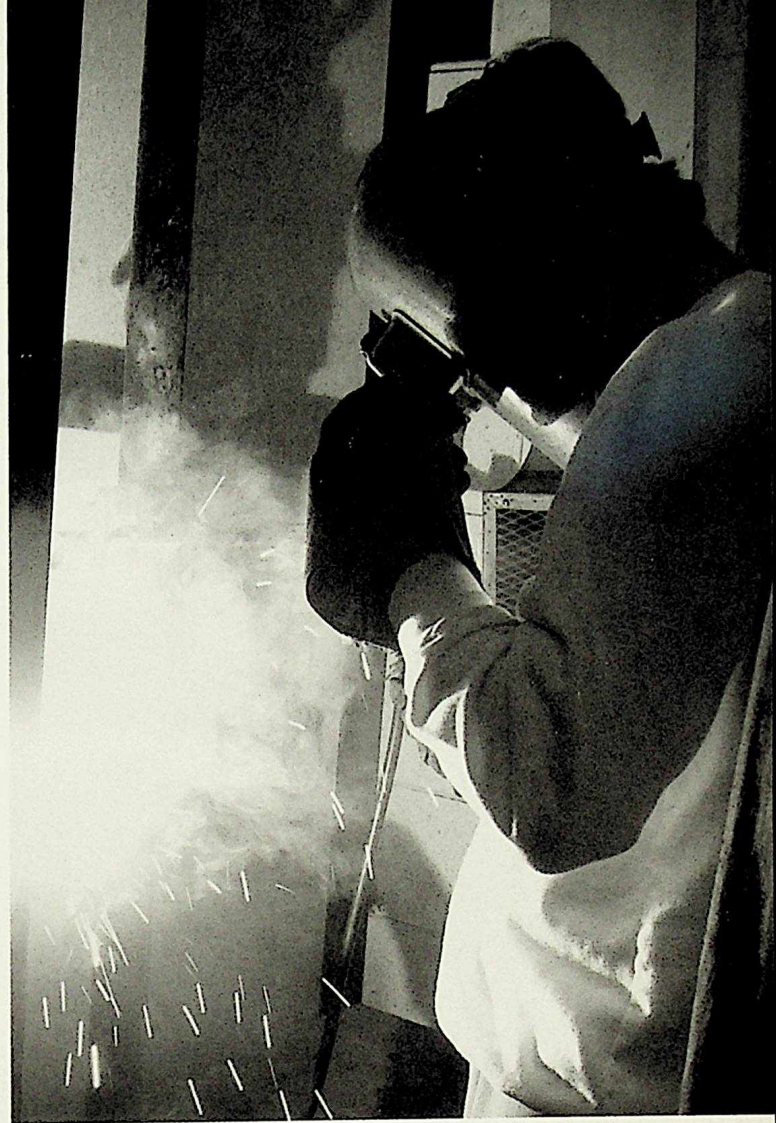

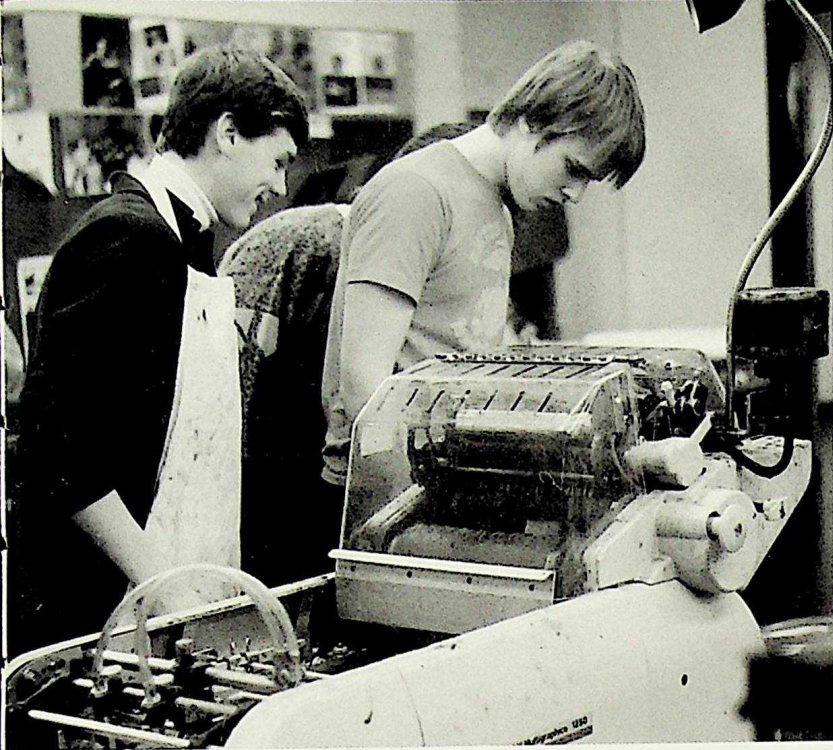

Since September the Senior Cheerleaders have been attending several sports activities, hosting school events and participating in several competitions. We competed in the Caper Tournament at Ross Sheppard and the Tri-prov Tournament at Harry Ainley. We hosted the City and Zone Cheerleading Championships and placed 3rd overall in the large squad division. The squad has qualified for the National Championships to be held at the Convention Center in Edmonton.

YEARBOOK

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

After long hours of planning and typing, lay-outs and picture-taking, the McNally Trend has made it again! Many thanks to our teacher-supervisors Mr. Al Smith, Ms. Peacocke, and Mrs. Knull for all their dedicated efforts.

Producing a yearbook such as this was a really enjoyable and valuable experience. The work that went into this yearbook is hard to express in words but I am sure that the result will be treasured by every student for years to come.

GRAD SONG

HERE'S THE WORLD

(BOB ROCK, DAVID FOSTER, PAUL HYDE, MIRIAM NELSON)

*Here's the world, I can only help you go so far
Try to teach you wrong from right
How to take each day like a brand new day
Don't worry 'bout me, cos who could ever ask for more
Listen to these words that I write
There'll be no tears in my eyes tonight
Don't let them fool you
Don't let them tell you that you'll never go far*

*Here's the world for ya, here's the world for ya,
Go tell them who you are
Here's the world for ya, here's the world for ya,
Go be a shining star*

*Take all my love and carry it inside of you
Know that I will always be there
Know that I will always care*

*Don't let them fool you
Don't let them tell you that you'll never go far*

*Here's the world for ya, here's the world for ya,
Go tell them who you are
Here's the world for ya, here's the world for ya,
Go be a shining star*

*And if I ever did wrong, please forgive me now
Before I am gone
And if I ever did right, tell me with a smile
That will light up this night, Light up this night
Here's the world for ya*
